Preparation moved up a month

'75 budget ready before April vote?

by JOHN MAES

Preparation of the 1975-76 Buffalo Grove budget has been moved ahead by about a month in an effort to complete the budget before the April election, said Village Mgr. Daniel Larson.

Larson said he has directed his department heads to furnish him with expense projections for the next fiscal year by Dec. 31 and said he hopes the village board can act on the new budget by April 7.

The plan has met with disfavor, however, from Raymond Mahoney, president of the Concerned Citizens of Buffalo Grove Party, a group likely to put up a slate of candidates for the next election.

New village trustees will be responsible for spending budgeted funds, he said, adding, they "should have an opportunity to keep their own house in order."

Tests don't tell what students learn

by JUDY JOBBITT

A news analysis

Confusion reigns in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 over just how much children are learning.

Two sets of contradictory figures show students are "average" and "above average" — and both sets are right.

Parents in Dist. 21 have complained that standardized test scores show children are only doing average work in a community with above-average resources.

The scores are determined by student performances on tests that cover material they "should know" in their year and month of school. Dist. 21 students scored at or slightly above their grade levels on the national tests, showing they know what they should — or a little more.

However, another set of figures — percentiles — which compare Dist. 21 student scores to scores throughout the nation, show they are doing better than most of their peers.

Students in the third grade scored 75 per cent; fourth grade scored 58.57 per cent; fifth grade scored 63.85 per cent; sixth grade scored 50.42 per cent; seventh grade scored 54.3 per cent and eighth grade scored 54 per cent.

Stewardess alive...parents rejoice

CAPT. CHRISTIAN KRACK, pilot of the Lufthansa jetliner, has been credited by passengers for saving 98 lives by making an emergency belly landing that kept the midsection of the plane intact. Krack survived the crash.

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Otto Rehm heard the news on the radio when he opened his small tailor shop in downtown Palatine Wednesday morning. A Lufthansa 747 jetliner had crashed at Nairobi Airport and 59 people were dead. He realized his 21-year-old daughter, a stewardess, was aboard.

For several hours Rehm and his wife Elisabeth waited for information on the survivors. Finally, it came.

"It's really bad, mom, but I'm all right," said Eveline Rehm, who contacted her parents by phone.

"WHEN SHE CALLED to tell us that she wasn't hurt, it was like she was reborn to us," Mrs. Rehm said of her only child.

"I was so numb when I heard about the crash I didn't know what to do. I was afraid to think about anything," she said in her heavy German accent.

Ninety-eight persons survived Flight 40 to Johannesburg when the plane plunged tail first into a muddy field shortly after liftoff. It was the first fatal crash of the world's biggest commercial jetliner.

THE REHM FAMILY moved to Chicago from Frankfurt 17 years ago. They now live in Schaumburg and own a tailor shop at 6 N. Bothwell St., Palatine.

Eveline began flying with Lufthansa more than a year ago after completing two years of business courses at Harper College. She always has been enthusiastic about flying and has made her second home in Frankfurt, Mrs. Rehm said.

"I was never afraid that anything like this would happen to her because she was never afraid that her plane would crash," Mrs. Rehm said.

"I think Eveline is strong enough to handle the situation that she's in now. When you take a job like that, you know you must do what is expected of you in an emergency," Mrs. Rehm said.

MRS. REHM attributes her daughter's safety to the skills of Capt. Christian Krack, 54, whose emergency belly landing of the plane kept the fuselage intact. A fire reportedly started in the back of the plane after takeoff and flames quickly leaped around to the outside. Survivors, some badly injured, dodged the growing flames and the metal debris of the wrecked plane to run for safety.

Mrs. Rehm said she cannot help but believe that a "guardian angel" watched over her daughter to keep her safe.

"You hear so many things like this on the news, and it never really means anything to you until it happens to someone you love. I thank God that our daughter is all right, but I feel bad for the families of those who didn't make it," Mrs. Rehm said.

EVELINE IS TO return to visit her parents Saturday for a six-day holiday leave.

"She may want to continue flying or she may not want to fly again," Mrs. Rehm said. "This will be up to her. Sometimes the after effects of such an experience can be more harmful than the scratches you get.

"In any case, we will have much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving," she said.

FIREMEN SPENT HOURS spraying wreckage of a Lufthansa Boeing 747 jet that burst into flames and crashed Wednesday in Nairobi, Kenya. Fifty-nine persons died in the first crash of a jumbojet, and 98 survived.

MSD won't obey city pollution law

The Metropolitan Sanitary District released an environmental assessment statement Thursday indicating the district will not obey a local anti-pollution ordinance in the design and construction of a huge sewer plant in Des Plaines. The sanitary district called "unlawful and unenforceable" a Des Plaines ordinance setting limits on air pollution that can be emitted from the proposed O'Hare Water Reclamation plant at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street. The 175-page statement also disclosed that the district has dropped immediate plans to build a reservoir southwest of the plant site and said that covered sewage reservoirs to meet the requirements of the Des Ploines ordinance could hike the plant cost by more than $30 million. The statement outlines sanitary district plans to build tunnels to carry sewage from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect to the plant for treatment. The statement — the MSD's official justification for building the O'Hare plant and tunnels in accordance with the sanitary district's designs — will be the subject of a hearing Dec. 19 and 20 in Mount Prospect.

Firm picks up officials' tab

Four Prospect Heights Park District board members were flown to Massachusetts this week courtesy of a pool-gutter firm, one of two companies whose equipment is being considered for purchase by the park board. Airfare for the four was at least $640 and all other expenses were paid by the firm, Whitten Co. of Massachusetts. Board Pres. Max Lyle said Whitten's bid was at least $10,000 under a local firm's and Whitten's equipment is not available for inspection in the Midwest. Others on the trip included commissioners Robert Barut, Joe Lesniak and Bill Kuhns.

120 racing days sought

John F. Loome, Arlington Park Race Track president, asked the Illinois Racing Board Thursday for 120 days of continuous racing from June 2 to Oct. 18. The 1975 racing schedule is to be announced by the board within the next several days.

Stavros has back ailment

Convicted Wheeling political boss James Stavros was transferred Nov. 2 from the federal prison at Sandstone, Minn., to the Lexington, Ky., federal penitentiary because of a back problem and chronic sinus condition. Also, William Bieber, former Wheeling building director, was denied parole Oct. 1, on the one-year prison term he began serving July 18, it was learned Thursday. He is reported to be "very sick" with a back ailment in the federal prison in Springfield, Mo., but is expected to remain there until he has served nine months of his sentence, officials said. Stavros began serving a four-year term June 25. Both men pleaded guilty to extorting developers in Wheeling.

91,115 jobless in Illinois...consumer prices up again

From Herald news services

The nation's sick economy has pushed up Illinois unemployment rates, and state officials said Thursday they are hard-pressed to cope with the soaring loss of jobs.

During the week ending Nov. 9, a total 91,115 people in Illinois claimed unemployment benefits — 16,274 of them for the first time. The total number of claims was 54 per cent higher than those made during a comparable week last year.

Christopher Nugent, chief of the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security, which runs the unemployment program, Thursday said his department does not have enough staff to do an efficient job of processing the claims, which means long lines for the unemployed and delays in payments of checks.

He said the Ford administration seems to not be aware of the severity of the problems, and he plans to talk with members of Illinois' congressional delegation about the unemployment picture in each of their districts.

Nugent's bureau also runs the state employment service, and he said the number of employers looking for workers has shown "a dramatic decline" recently in almost all occupations except clerical.

"What we see is a decline across the board," he said, "and the failure of employers to replace attritioned employes."

Bob Shackford, director of research for the bureau, said Thursday he thinks the current unemployment rate of 4.7 per cent in Illinois means the state is in a recession, but he does not foresee a 1930s-type depression because the nation now has such safeguards as unemployment benefits, social security and welfare payments.

Nationwide, more auto and supply workers got layoff notices.

General Motors Corp. said Thursday it will idle 30,000 workers at nine assembly plants in December, pushing auto industry joblessness in the weeks before Christmas to more than 150,000 workers.

GM's announcement of temporary one and two-week shutdowns at 9 of its 22 U.S. assembly plants came as Chrysler and Ford confirmed plans to cut white collar workers from their payrolls because of production cutbacks. Predictions were for 3,000 to be idled at Ford and 15,000 at Chrysler.

As thousands more people lost their jobs, prices rose again. A Labor Department report showed consumer prices increased 0.9 per cent in October, largely because of higher prices on cars, housing, cereal and bakery goods.

The increase meant the annual rate continued to rise at 12.2 per cent. The government said the purchasing power of average workers was down 0.3 per cent from September and 4.9 per cent from October, 1973, despite pay increases.

BAKERS IN Hartford, Conn. march at the capitol protesting high sugar prices. The Labor Department Thursday reported prices up again.

The economy at a glance

- Government figures show the annual inflation rate continuing to rise at a 12.2 per cent rate, further eroding consumer buying power.
- Senate Democrats unanimously approved a seven-point economic agenda for the next Congress calling for wage and price controls as a last resort.
- Announcement of additional layoffs in the auto industry pushed the total of idled workers to 150,000. With a record 80-day supply of unsold cars, the industry's outlook for December production was bleaker than November, when car output was down 31 per cent from a year ago.
- The nationwide strike by coal miners is expected to drag well into December as union president Arnold Miller attempted to defend the proposed new contract with members.
- Budget Director Roy Ash told Congress that government regulation is costing the American consumer as much as $16 billion a year in higher prices.
- New orders for durable goods fell in October for the second straight month, although the decline was not so sharp as in September.

Suit could destroy AT&T: deButts

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Ford Administration's antitrust suit against American Telephone & Telegraph Corp., if successful, could destroy the company and result in poorer telephone service at a higher cost, AT&T Chairman John deButts said Thursday.

"We'll fight this one to the end," declared deButts.

He said the antitrust suit filed by the Justice Department could hurt consumers as well as stockholders.

"I think the whole thing is a ripoff of the stockholders," deButts said. "They are the ones who are going to lose if (the government) is successful."

AT&T is the world's largest and richest publicly owned corporation and has three million shareholders, the most of any U. S. corporation.

The Justice Department accused AT&T and its 23 operating companies of restraining competition through monopolistic practices in a U.S. district court suit. The government demanded the communications network to divest itself of Western Electric, its manufacturing subsidiary, and Bell Laboratories, its research arm, along with its long-distance telephone operation.

DeButts told a news conference AT&T is one of the most efficient and profitable companies in the world and said he could not understand why the government took the action at a time when President Ford was urging business to become more productive.

"It was in the public interest, Congress ruled, to have a telephone monopoly," deButts said, adding that the principle had been upheld by Congressional committees, regulatory agencies and the Justice Department itself.

DeButts said AT&T would contest the action vigorously in a court battle that could last 10 years and cost an "astronomical amount which will have to be paid by the consumer."

Many of AT&T's three million stockholders engaged in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, buying or selling 871,000 shares in the aftermath of the government's antitrust suit against the company. However, the expected drop in price was a relatively modest $3 from $45.63.

Senate override of two major vetoes by Ford deals President serious blow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Thursday easily overrode vetoes of two major bills, dealing a serious blow to President Ford.

By one-sided margins, the Senate refused to sustain Ford's vetoes of an $851 million vocational rehabilitation program and strengthening of the 1966 Freedom of Information Act.

The Senate voted 65 to 27, three more than the required two-thirds, to override the veto of the Freedom of Information Act amendments and 90 to 1 to reject the veto of the vocational rehabilitation program. Only Sen. William L. Scott, R-Va., stuck with Ford.

The House Wednesday overrode the two vetoes by huge margins.

The legislation making government information more accessible to the public was vetoed before Congress went into a 30-day election-period recess and now becomes law. (See editorial, "A defeat for secrecy," on page 14 of this section.)

But there is a dispute between Congress and the administration, which may go to the Supreme Court, over the rehabilitation program. Ford vetoed the bill during the recess and the administration considers that a "pocket veto" which cannot be overturned.

The House Thursday gave final congressional approval to an $11.8 billion mass transit aid bill passed by the Senate Tuesday. It now goes to Ford, who said in a telegram to House leaders that he would sign it.

The 288-109 House vote surpassed the hopes of the bill's sponsors, who had feared a "squeaker" vote because of a jurisdictional dispute between two committees over whose transit aid bill should be considered.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill to end the controversial oil depletion allowance and give a small break to low and moderate income taxpayers.

Elimination of tax writeoffs for fuel exploration expenses next Jan. 1 would cost the oil industry an estimated $3.28 billion in 1975 if enacted.

The bill increases the rate for standard income tax deduction from 15 to 16 per cent and raises its maximum dollar amount from $2,000 to $2,300 while increasing the minimum deduction from $1,300 to $1,600 for individuals and $1,900 for couples.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER, with his wife, Happy, behind him takes oath before the House Judiciary Committee. He told the panel that, if confirmed as vice president, he will voluntarily place the bulk of his $265 million holdings into blind trusts.

Ed Hanrahan a candidate for mayor of Chicago

by United Press International

Edward V. Hanrahan, a Democrat who lost his bid for the House of Representatives in the Nov. 5 elections, announced Thursday he is a candidate for mayor of Chicago.

Hanrahan, 53, is a former Cook County state's attorney and a popular independent Democrat who beat the party candidate to win nomination for 6th District congressman. He was defeated by Republican Henry J. Hyde by more than 8,000 votes.

"I am a candidate for mayor of Chicago," Hanrahan told a news conference. "Not just mayor of downtown Chicago, but the mayor of Pilsen Park, Lawndale, Uptown, South Chicago and mayor of every other part of our city."

Incumbent Richard J. Daley, who has been elected mayor five times, has yet to announce whether he will run for a sixth term in next year's election.

Pub bombs in England kill 19, hurt 120

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Bombs shattered two crowded pubs 100 yards apart within two minutes Thursday night, killing at least 19 persons and wounding 120 more. Others were reported missing in the rubble.

Police said seven persons perished in the first explosion at Mulberry Bush and 12 in the second in the Tavern in the Town in the Bull Ring district of this industrial city 110 miles north of London.

The explosives came about 8:30 p.m. while the two popular pubs were crowded with their nighttime regulars. First estimates said there were about 200 persons in each.

Both were demolished by the blasts, with police reporting many persons believed buried in the rubble of concrete, wood and glass.

It was the highest death toll so far in the wave of bombings that has swept Britain, mostly aimed at pubs frequented by military personnel. Police have said the Irish Republican Army is responsible.

Ambulance drivers and firemen raced to the scene to find the streets littered with glass and debris and dozens of dazed victims covered in blood.

"At least two of the blokes in the group I was running with were just blown over," said Graham Turner, a shoe store clerk who ran toward the scene after the first explosion. "Scores of injured people began appearing covered in blood with their clothes ripped off."

Assistant Chief Constable Maurice Buck said at least 50 were in the first explosion and "scores" more in the second.

Taxi driver Tim Whelan was among many who offered their vehicles as ambulances. He said, "most of them were too shocked to say anything."

Police said the bombs had been planted in the pubs and not thrown in.

Birmingham General Hospital said it had received 70 injured persons and many of them were in serious condition which necessitated emergency surgery.

A hospital spokesman described the scene as "like a battlefield."

Michael Wills, 18, was in the Tavern when the first ebplosion hit. He said "I was going to put a record in the juke box when all hell was let loose.

"There was a massive explosion with bodies everywhere. I had to climb over them to get out. The screaming and groaning of the injured was terrible.

"Glass was flying and furniture was thrown all over the place."

President Ford arrives in Seoul

President Ford arrived in the South Korean capital of Seoul last night in an emphatic gesture of continuing United States support for an ally whose soldiers battled side-by-side with American fighting men in two wars. About 1,400 persons, headed by Korean President Park Chung Hee, were on hand when he arrived from Osaka for a 23-hour visit here after a five-day stay in Japan.

U. N. to take up Palestinian issue

The United States urged Thursday that the demands of the Palestinians be taken up in negotiations rather than by dramatic maneuvers in the United Nations. U.N. sources said, however, Arab states could probably muster majorities Friday for historic resolutions giving the Palestinian Liberation Organization observer status in the U.N., and calling for return of Palestinian refugees to what is now Israel or territories occupied by Israel.

Two hijackers seized a British Airways jetliner on the ground in the Persian Gulf shiekdom of Dubai Thursday. A stewardess was wounded in the takeover struggle. Chicago Ridge mayor, trustees indicted

U.S. Attorney James Thompson Thursday announced the indictment of Joseph Coglianese, mayor of suburban Chicago Ridge, all six members of the board of trustees and two former trustees on charges they engaged in a "massive conspiracy" to extort money from businesses and property owners. Thompson said, "It was a shakedown scheme that could be summed up in the sentence: If it moves, tax it, except in this case, any movement required a shakedown payment."

Cook County State's Attorney Bernard Carey has filed suit against Illinos Department of Corrections Director Allyn Sielaff, charging that his "gross abuse" of the prisoner-furlough program threatens the safety of witnesses in criminal cases. Cost of robots on Mars project soars

Total costs of an effort to land two life-searching Viking Robots on Mars in 1976 more than doubled during the past five years to over $1 billion, space agency officials told Congress Thursday. Faulty original cost estimates and nagging technical problems for the most complicated unmanned spacecraft ever built were blamed for the higher estimates.

U. S. proposes Soviet-American meeting

The United States has proposed a Soviet-American meeting to discuss observance of the strategic arms limitation agreements concluded at the 1972 Moscow summit conference, State Department officials said Thursday. The meeting was proposed because U.S. officials need a clarification of a number of Soviet activities being carried out under the agreement.

FDA warns of German heart pacemaker

The Food and Drug Administration said Thursday that doctors have been told to keep a close watch on about 1,500 heart patients who are using a type of German heart peacemaker which may not work properly. In Dallas, meanwhile, a doctor said many patients have been frightened by inappropriate announcements of pacemaker recalls. He said many patients don't know what kind they have, and recalls should be a physician alert with quiet notification to the patients involved.

'Sunshine' reigns as world champion

by TONI GINNETTI

When Diane Klotz decided to buy her husband, Karme, a horse for his birthday in August 1973, she never thought just a year later the couple would own the world's champion Appaloosa.

That's exactly what happened. The Hoffman Estates couple's brown-and-spotted steed, named Sunday Sunshine, took top honors in one of three classes of competition this month at the World Championship Appaloosa Show in Oklahoma City.

Sunshine's triumph after winning 14 first-place honors in approved horse show competitions throughout the nation has made the 2-year-old gelding worth about $7,000, Mrs. Klotz says.

Not a bad return on a $1,500 investment made only 11 months ago. But, says Mrs. Klotz, fame and fortune was not the reason the couple bought the horse.

"I though he was beautiful," she said. "It was a completely illogical thing to do. He wasn't expected to do well in competitions, although his breeding is good."

THE KLOTZ VENTURE into the equine world began a year ago when Mrs. Klotz decided to get her husband a birthday present and satisfy a childhood love at the same time.

"I've always loved horses, but I'm from New York and you don't see too many out there," she said, smiling. "When it finally became financially able for us, we bought a horse. We started with a grade horse, an unregistered horse."

The purchase, however, was a little one-sided.

"I'm the kind of person who does something and then comes home and says 'look what I bought,'" she said, laughing. "A girlfriend of mine had a horse, and we had been riding hers. It was the kind of thing where I said 'let's spend a day looking at horses for sale,' and I bought one!"

The couple sold their first horse when they purchased Sunshine in January from the Stoneridge Farm stable in Dundee, where they had boarded their first horse.

THE STABLE RAISES and breeds Appaloosas, horses known for their beauty, versatility and endurance. Sunshine was purchased at an auction in Utah by the farm to be sold, she said.

"We didn't buy him to show, but it kind of snowballed. Then we couldn't afford to keep him out of competition."

The couple joined two Appaloosa horse clubs, the Blackhawk and the South Wisconsin clubs, hired Jim Marshall from Stonerights to train the animal and entered the horse show competition circuit in May.

The horse's victories are catalogued in a room of the couple's Winston Knolls subdivision home. Dozens of prize ribbons for general competitions adorn one wall, while trophies from regulation Appaloosa club competitions line the fireplace mantel and shelves.

The trophies include 14 firsts, the Illinois and Missouri state championships, and seven grand championships, awards which are given in each competition to the best of all first place winners.

MRS. KLOTZ SAID her horse competes in the halter category, in which the animal is judged by its appearance, breed qualities and movement. Victories in grand-champion competition qualify a horse to go on to the world show.

Winning the international competition, however, was an unexpected victory, she said, so much so that, although the Klotz' had traveled to most of the other shows, they didn't attend the major show.

"I was crying on the phone when they called to tell us we won," Mrs. Klotz said. "We thought it was out of the question."

For veteran horsemen, winning an international competition often never comes, but if their fellow club members are jealous of the Klotz' good luck, they haven't shown it.

"The people in the club are fantastic," she said. "We're novices and they've helped us a lot. It's very much a family type thing."

AN ADMIRING glance from Diane Klotz goes to her winner, Sunday Sunshine. The Appaloosa recently won international honors for his breed and this year also was chosen Illinois and Missouri state champion. The Klotz' who reside in Hoffman Estates, have been horse owners for only a year.

ODDLY ENOUGH, ther "hobby" is not a moneymaking one for her husband, who works for Centex Homes Corp. The world champion medallion award, for example, carried with it only about $180 in prize money, she said, about enough to pay for one month's boarding fee.

Sunshine's board at the stable is $115 per month. Marshall's fee for a training period of one to three months is another $200. The couple also has two other horses, one is a riding horse and the other a yearling, also boarded at the stable.

"It's an expensive hobby, but when you have a horse like him, you can't not do it. It definitely takes money from your income."

There is a great deal of time involved in caring for the animal as well, and Mrs. Klotz said she and her two small sons spend at least four nights a week at the stable in addition to weekends.

But the time requirement would never be too much to make her give up the horses, Mrs. Klotz says firmly.

"I'd make time for it. I go to school part-time, I'm kind of a free lance photographer, and I have two children, too. But I would still make time for the horse."

Woman, 40, raped on Dundee Road after car trouble

Sheriff's police said Thursday a 40-year-old Wheeling woman allegedly was raped Monday on Dundee Road by a man who stopped to help her with her car.

Police said the incident occurred at about 12:30 p.m. after the woman's car broke down on Dundee Road between Wolf and Rand roads. The woman's attacker threatened her with a knife, police said.

Police said the woman told them she was having problems with her car and apparently had it fixed at a gas station at Wolf and Dundee roads in Wheeling. However, after the woman drove west on Dundee Road for a short time, her car stopped again.

Police said it was at this point the alleged offender stopped behind her car and offered his assistance. She accepted his help, but the man pulled the knife and then raped her after he entered the car, police said.

After the rape, the woman went to a business at the intersection of Dundee and Rand roads and called police, police said. The offender is described as white, 30 to 32 with olive complexion, black hair, clean-shaven and well-dressed.

The victim was treated at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

A similar incident occurred in the same area along Dundee Road Dec. 8, 1973.

A Schaumburg woman was raped by a man who offered to give the woman a ride to a hospital after she had been involved in an accident on Dundee Road near Saxton Place, Buffalo Grove police said. The man, who never was apprehended, then dumped the woman several blocks from Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

Trustees to meet before roundtable

Despite a scheduled President's Roundtable, the Buffalo Grove Village Board will meet in an abbreviated 30-minute session Monday night to take care of business before adjourning to the informal discussion.

Board meetings are not normally convened on roundtable nights, but Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said Thursday village officials want to avoid delay in enacting the new water rate ordinance and sealing agreements for the Buffalo Grove Golf Course and acquisition of land for a public works garage.

The village board session will start at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. The roundtable will follow at 8 p.m.

Simulated disaster

Mount Prospect gears for worst

by STEVE FORSYTH

It was a normal rush hour in Mount Prospect — until the speeding Chicago & North Western Ry. freight train jumped the tracks at Central Road and Northwest Highway.

Within minutes, according to a simulated disaster staged Thursday afternoon in Mount Prospect, every local emergency service and six area hospitals were involved deeply in the chaos that followed.

Detailed planning under the supervision of a special department of Illinois State University created a semi-realistic series of problems that added up to the largest simulated disaster test in the state. The entire program was run in the basement of the Lions Park Community Center, focused around large maps and tally boards to indicate the progress of the work.

All Mount Prospect village departments, the area hospitals, utilities, Civil Defense, the railroad and other agencies participated or observed. Program director Floyd Dunlap estimated 100 persons participated and another 65 observed.

THE SIMULATED Mount Prospect disaster included a number of staged complications in the 300 problems preplanned for the exercise. The complications ranged from stuck elevators to a protest march at village hall, with citizens complaining about the 71-m.p.h. speed of the train and its acid cargo.

The "catastrophe" resulted in three deaths, about 2,000 injuries and about $15 million in damage, according to the damage estimate team. The crash involved 20 passengers, some leaking vinyl chloride acid and a herd of loose cattle, for which aid from farmers and cowboys was requested.

Local schools were pressed into service as possible morgues when hospital facilities became crowded, and other emergencies had to be handled while the disaster was going on. At one point a collision with another train threatened to complicate the situation.

TO ADD REALISM, the planners included problems with the news media, which wanted interviews, television film and hospital reports. A second march on village hall occurred, protesting village plans for a new library.

Blizzard conditions wre reported and police were constantly receiving routine calls for accidents, holdups and assorted major crimes. The situaton worsened as hospitals began to run short on emergency treatment equipment and oxygen, and at the peak of the crisis, a man was admitted for a head injury from a golf ball at a nearby golf course.

The disaster became detailed as a hospital employe reported a copying machine was broken.

In two hours the disaster crew simulated 24 hours of emergency activity. ISU officials said the exercise was most significant in teaching agencies what they could do with existing equipment and facilities, and how a real procedure might work.

EACH PARTICIPATING agency will be thoroughly critiqued in a few weeks, Dunlap said, and will be able to evaluate its own programs and efficiency. The program is funded under a Civil Defense preparedness grant. The university has a contract to provide staff and a number of disaster preparedness programs throughout the state this year.

Mount Prospect was selected as a simulation test site because of its central location in the area served by the North Suburban Assn. for Health Resources, said Mount Prospect Paramedic David Gold, local project coordinator.

DETAILS of a mock train wreck and ensuing emergency "action" in Mount Prospect are logged on a chalkboard so observers can follow progress of the test. The exercise Thursday was the largest simulated disaster in the state.

THE JOYS AND SORROWS of the 1930s were brought home to St. Viator High School students this week during a multi-media presentation of politics, art, literature, music and sports popular during that era. The performance and narration was by Rick Trow Productions of Philadelphia.

Tests show contradictory results

How much are students learning?

students scored in the 80-90 percentile. Irving, Longfellow, Tarkington, Frost and Alcott elementary schools showed scores between 60-80 per cent.

Low test scores were recorded in Field, Hawthorne and Twain elementary schools, with Field and Twain scoring in the 40th percentile.

Iowa Basic standardized tests measure achievement in vocabulary, reading comprehension, language skills, work-study skills and mathematics skills.

THE REASON WHY some schools showed lower test results is because the district includes scores from all students, including those with learning difficulties and bilingual students, said Supt. Kenneth Gill. Those students are more heavily concentrated at some schools than at others.

He said the district also has an influx of bilingual students in the spring when migrant workers move back into the district. The standardized tests are given shortly after most of these students arrive.

Intensive efforts by the district to raise low scores have been effective in the past, Gill said. When an area needs improvement, he said, two things must be accomplished. First, low-scoring students must be given help, and second, the district must change the curriculum at the lower grade levels to improve future scores.

DIST. 21 STUDENTS showed above-average achievement in vocabulary and work-study skills in all grades.

Reading scores were one month behind average in grades 5-7, language skills were one month behind in fourth grade and two months behind in sixth grade, and math skills were low in grades 4-6.

Gill said the district noticed low scores in computation before last year. This year the district is piloting a math series to introduce a math curriculum that emphasizes computation skills without losing the conceptual skills presented in the "new" math. He said it takes about two years to show results of a different curriculum designed to improve a skill area.

THE DISTRICT HAS SET up a task force to investigate the low-skill areas. But the staff has been cautioned not to "wreck the whole program to teach just basic skills," Gill said.

Gill said he is concerned with teachers' reactions to recent criticism about test scores. Many teachers felt they must concentrate solely on basic skills to the exclusion of other academic areas, he said. This type of overreaction could damage the district's over-all curriculum, he said.

The standardized tests do not check on areas such as art, music, social studies or science, he said. "What else is taught and not tested needs to be maintained and improved, too," he added.

Field School is applying for a federally funded progam to improve basic skills. Field scored in the 40th percentile or below in all skills except work-study.

The district also is bringing in two consultants from Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, to analyze the test scores. Wesley Many, assistant dean of the college of education, and Harold Collins, a specialist in statistics, have done similar studies in other school districts.

The district received notice of their services Thursday.

Caucus challenged on tests panel

Supt. Kenneth Gill of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 has challenged the right of the district's General Caucus to form a committee to study student test scores.

Gill turned down a request from the caucus committee that he and Richard Wynn, special education director, meet with the committee to discuss the scores.

"This seems like a very strange request coming from a group that was formed for the purpose of selecting qualified school board candidates," Gill stated in his letter to Sally Benoit, committee member. "I question your authority to branch out into other areas of endeavor under the caucus banner."

PARENTS ASKED the school board last week about the district having average scores in a community with above-average education background, income and educational resources. The caucus established the study committee Monday to investigate the reasons for the average scores.

Mary Ellen Feldman, caucus chairman, said she is allowed to set up special committees. In this instance, however the membership voted to establish the group looking into test scores, she said.

GILL ALSO SENT a notice to the PTO and PTA organizations stating he would meet with either group to discuss test results.

He acknowledged Mrs. Benoit's request to meet with the caucus committee in the PTA-PTO letters stating, "We are refusing this invitation on the basis that such activities on the part of the caucus usurps the purpose for which the caucus was convened.

"It is my understanding that the single purpose of the caucus is to select qualified school board candidates to run in the upcoming election. It is also my contention that they should stick to this purpose until they have been authorized by you to move out into other areas of endeavor in your name."

Village hopes to complete budget before April vote

tion of budgetary items will make it possible for the current board to get the budget passed before the elections early next April. Otherwise, he said, adoption of a budget to carry the village through April 30, 1976 might be delayed and the process would have to wait for new board members to be seated.

Officials did not begin preparing the current budget until late January which received final village approval in July.

Budget approval was delayed this year because of revisions and cutbacks that had to be made to offset shortages in the general fund and to accommodate pay raises for village employes.

THE TERMS OF Village Pres. Gary Armstrong and trustee James Shirley, Randall Rathjen, and Edward Osmon expire next year. So far, all refuse comment on their plans for reelection.

Of the plans to move procedures ahead this year Shirley said, "That is something the board ought to commit itself to doing before election time."

He said that during the 1970 elections, budget adoption was delayed to almost September because of what he termed a "learning process" faced by new board members.

He said, "We (current trustees) enter the fiscal period with a budget and plan already in mind — it's the job and responsibility of the existing board and should be completed by that time. Not to do so would be a question of shirking our responsibility."

DESPITE FAVORING budget action before current terms run out, Shirley said new board members "would not be precluded from exercising influence on that budget."

Armstrong said pre-election budget passage was a matter of "good economics and good sense" saying the "expertise" of current board members on village matters is a factor in budgeting.

He also said newly-elected trustees would have time to amend the budget until filing of an appropriations ordinance by the end of July.

IN LARSON'S tenative schedule salary ranges for village employes and budget requests will be reviewed in January. The annual financial report for the current fiscal year ending April 30, will be taken up by the village board in February.

The finance committee will review recommended budget requests in early March while the village board will examine the proposals later in the month.

The village is currently operating under a budget including expenditures of $3.1 million.

WE WANT YOU.

Nobody has got more out of Scouting than the men who earned the Eagle Badge.

But when you think about it, nobody owes more to Scouting, either. Any Eagle Scout will tell you how important Scouting was in shaping his confidence and his character.

If you earned the Eagle Badge, we want you back in Scouting—as a volunteer leader. Nobody is better equipped to lead boys to manhood.

America's manpower begins with BOYPOWER, and nothing builds BOYPOWER like the Scouts.

Will you help?

HECTOR, A FORMER Volkswagen and future electric car has been drawing attention at Harper College lately. The car is the project of electronics teacher Ken Jauch.

Watch out! Here comes Hector the electric car...

By sometime next spring, students, teachers and visitors at Harper College are going to have to watch out for electronics teacher Ken Jauch and his car Hector.

Right now, Hector is just a shell and a chassis drawing notice from people who walk past Jauch's electronics lab at the college. But by spring, Jauch hopes to have the Volkswagen converted to run on electricity.

"It's a personal project that I've always wanted to do," Jauch says. "Last spring I found an old Volkswagen on a friend's farm and one thing led to another."

Jauch is making Hector out of scrounged-up and leftover parts he has on hand or has bought at surplus stores. The electric motor to be attached to the drive shaft was donated to the school about a year ago.

Jauch says he has collected batteries for the car from the college maintenance shop and from old cars. So far he has six batteries. "I would be nice to have ten-12-volt batteries because that would get about two horsepower and might get me 30 miles an hour," he says.

RIGHT NOW, JAUCH isn't using the electric car as a project for his classes because he teaches freshmen and "they don't know enough to help me design it," he says. Next semester he hopes to get a more advanced class involved in the project.

The car got its name from one of his students. Hector stands for "Help Everyone Conserve Today's Oil Resources" and replaced an earlier, unofficial name of "Herbie."

Once Jauch gets the car running, he says he plans to use it for experiments, to run around the campus and to help students understand some principles of electric power. "The prime thing I'm looking for is something simple," he says. "This isn't going to be any great new breakthrough in electric power."

Jauch also gets a gleam in his eye when he thinks about outfitting his car to run on the highway. "I live just five miles from here, so maybe I'll be able to use it to commute to work eventually," he says. "Can you imagine the problems the state would have trying to figure out what kind of license to give me?"

Municipal group seeks Daley as dinner speaker

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is being sought as the speaker for the Jan. 15 annual dinner meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

The dinner committee told the conference Wednesday that Daley may be available, depending on what his doctors say. A possible alternative would be the chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority, if one is appointed before January. The dinner will be at the Lancer Steak House, Schaumburg.

New officers for the conference will be Elk Grove Village Pres. Charles Zettek, president; Elk Grove Village Mgr. Charles Willis, secretary; and Streamwood Village Pres. Frank Schumacher, vice president.

The conference also approved a resolution supporting the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission as official planning agency for water quality in the Chicago region. New federal regulations for water quality management allow local agents to be designated by the governor or by the municipalities of each area. Gov. Daniel Walker will schedule a public hearing on the water quality management agency selection before an agent is approved.

NIPC asked each of the 15 Northwest suburban municipalities in the conference to approve a supportive resolution. Similar requests are being made throughout the six-county metropolitan area.

The water quality planning is designed to meet federal goals of safe water for recreation, fish and wildlife by 1983 and elimination of all pollution in navigable waters by 1985.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Colitis cause unknown

I'm 37. For about six years I've had a severe case of ulcerative colitis. Seldom do I see any articles about it, and I find most people don't know what it is or anything about it.

A few weeks ago when I was released from the hospital, my doctor, the leading internist in this area, suggested an operation. This involves all of my colon and part of my small intestine.

My former doctor cautioned me continually about cancer. Some of my latest spells have been more emotional and I've had vomiting. Others have suggested I try having either allergy tests made or admitting myself to the state mental hospital for help before I go through the operation. What would you suggest?

I wish there were a good answer. The cause of ulcerative colitis is not known. And, we know just about as much about its treatment.

As you know the most common features of the disease are diarrhea, often with blood and mucus, and lower abdominal crampy pain. The symptoms are variable. Some people even have changes in the rectum or lower colon and have few, if any, noticeable symptoms. Others have severe diarrhea, hemorrhage and complications such as perforation of the colon.

It can be, and no doubt in your case is, a difficult disease. It can become chronic with recurring attacks of severe diarrhea and bleeding. Weight loss is common with it.

MILK AND MILK products seem to cause attacks in some patients. At one time it was believed that an allergic reaction to milk might be the cause. In any case I believe any one with this problem should avoid milk and milk products and goods made with lots of milk, like milk gravy and sauces.

Some cases seem to be started off with a diarrhea infectious illness. In some ways the disease acts like the immune mechanism of the body has gone haywire and the body is trying to reject the lining of the colon as foreign tissue. The disease, incidentally, can involve the rectum, colon, and terminal part of the small intestine.

I can't judge what you should do about surgery, but I can suggest that your fine internist has a good basis for his recommendation. Six years of trouble with involvement of the colon and terminal ileum tells me you have a severe case. Many patients do surprisingly well after surgery.

Cancer of the colon is much more common in patients with ulcerative colitis. And, less than 30 per cent of them survive five years if a cancer occurs. That is why your first doctor was concerned.

Don't waste your time on allergy tests. They won't help solve your problem. And, forget about the emotional problems, they often go along with the disease, and you may find out that your problems in this area are markedly improved when you have improved physically. Now, not everyone needs surgery for ulcerative colitis, but in selected cases that have not gone into remission and have not done well with good medical treatment, then it is often a good choice.

Scott backs Walker veto of bill to restrain pollution cleanup

Existing Illinois law is written to prevent pollution regulations from "destroying the economy," said Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott Wednesday. He urged state legislators not to override Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of a bill designed to determine the economic impact of cleanup regulations.

Scott said the bill, Senate Bill 589, would hamstring state pollution control enforcement programs and could cost Illinois $250 million a year in federal funds for improved sewage treatment. The bill's provision for detailed studies of existing and proposed pollution control regulations "could be interpreted by the courts as requiring suspension of enforcement until the studies are done," he said.

If this happens, Scott said, the federal government might cut off the 75 per cent funding of sewage treatment plant construction in Illinois municipalities. Existing state law requires the Illinois Pollution Control Board to consider the economic impact of proposed environmental controls, he said.

Sims' superstition succeeds

The late P. Hal Sims was asked if he had a superstitious feeling about some particular card. He thought a while and replied: "The ace of spades is lucky for me."

Today's hand, illustrates another of Hal's superstitions. He believed firmly that if you did not want a certain opponent to get the lead, you should play him for holding a singleton king and refuse to finesse against his partner.

Playing at three notrump, Hal carefully won the heart lead with the king not the ace. He had to attack diamonds. If East got in with the king, East would read the ace as a falsecard from ace-king. He would not know if the king were a forced play; a falsecard from king-queen or a normal play from ace-king.

In any event Hal saw that his contract was safe unless East got in with the king of diamonds; shifted to a spade honor and found West with Hal's lucky ace of spades.

So at trick two Hal led the jack of diamonds; went right up with dummy's ace; plucked East's singleton king and came home with the bacon.

Heart patients 'need good examples'

Doctors also must curb smoking, heavy eating

DALLAS (UPI) — A heart specialist says doctors cannot expect their patients to give up smoking and watch their diets unless the physicians set a good example by doing it too.

Dr. John S. Schroeder of the Stanford University Medical School said it is important for persons who have had one heart attack to quit smoking, lose weight, eat a low cholesterol diet and exercise.

"I think we must be a model to our patients, though," Schroeder said Wednesday at the American Heart Assn. conference. "I think that's evident at these national meetings. Fewer physicians are smoking."

Signs at the conference say no smoking in the meeting rooms and no ashtrays are provided there.

DR. HENRY Blackburn of the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis said there are a number of ways to get patients to follow guidelines necessary to preventing subsequent heart attacks.

He said during an examination he will look at the patient's throat and ask him how much he smokes and then listen to his chest and ask him what brand.

"The least the doctor can do is to be authoritarian, put on his white coat and say 'This is what I believe for this reason,' " Blackburn said.

"We find if people commit themselves to a date to quit smoking they tend to stick to it better than if they just say 'Yes, doctor, I'll quit.' You let the patient decide how to do it — cold turkey or slowly."

Blackburn said no matter how they quit, it's important they do it and not just cut down.

"We find that at about half a pack a day they just have to bite the bullet and quit," he said. "They can't just stay at that level. They tend to go back up."

Airline to resume charging for drinks

The airline booze war on the East Coast has subsided before it got into the hangover stage.

National Airlines, which began serving free drinks in coach sections this month, announced this week that it will resume charging for drinks Jan. 14. The drink policy caused Eastern Airlines to do the same on competitive flights with National, but the practice did not spread beyond certain Florida routes.

National spokesmen said they adopted the free-drink policy to restore business after a 108-day machinists strike.

Need for 'new faces' why Glass is supporting Fawell

A need for "new faces" in the Republican legislative leadership led state senators Bradley M. Glass, R-Northfield, and Terrel Clarke, R-Western Springs, to ally themselves behind State Sen. Harris Fawell for minority Senate leader, said Glass.

Glass said he and Clarke, who both sought election as minority leader, agreed in a meeting Tuesday night that neither could garner enough support to defeat State Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, present president of the Senate who is seeking reelection as GOP leader. Clarke opposed Harris for the position of president in 1973.

Sidestepping any criticism of Harris, Glass said he believed "things can be improved upon in the Senate."

"We want to restore fiscal responsibility and expand Republicanism in the legislature," Glass said. "It's just a matter of letting some new people come in (to the leadership)."

GLASS SAID HE remains interested in a position in the GOP Senate leadership, but has had no commitment from Fawell.

Acknowledging Fawell's reputation as a liberal Republican, Glass said of himself and Clarke, "We may not be in accord with his philosophies, but we know he has the experience, and he is a man of integrity."

Glass said he was confident that Fawell would articulate party positions "when that is appropriate" that reflect the views of the consensus of the Republican minority in the Senate.

Glass estimated that 10 of the 25 members of the GOP Senate contingent were committed to Fawell. Only 13 votes will be necessary to elect the minority leader at the Republican Senate caucus Dec. 4.

Fawell has served in the Senate since 1963, when he won the "Best Freshman" award of the Illinois Political Reporter. He has been cited twice by the Independent Voters of Illinois as "best legislator."

A defeat for secrecy

By overwhelming votes, Congress this week overrode President Ford's veto of a bill which amended the federal Freedom of Information Act to guarantee broader public access to government information and documents.

The House vote Wednesday was 371-31; both Rep. Philip W. Crane, R-12th, and Rep. Samuel Young, R-10th, voted to override. In the 65-17 Senate vote Thursday, both Illinois Sens. Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson supported the override.

The lopsided vote reflected the growing concern among all citizens as well as news media over government by secrecy and the public's inaccessibility to public records.

In vetoing the House-Senate measure, the President surrendered to the fear of an open society that increasingly seems endemic to Washington — even in the wake of Watergate.

The federal bureaucracy is rife with officials who want their actions reported and interpreted in the most favorable light; who say and do things which they find convenient to keep in a locked drawer under the guise of undefined "national security" interests; who feel they know best what the public should — and should not — know about the public's business.

The original Freedom of Information Act was passed in 1966, but government bureaucrats found loopholes to make it relatively ineffective. These amendments strengthen the law by speeding up the informational process, shortening the time for government to respond to requests for information, providing disciplinary action for officials who attempt to thwart the law and providing judicial review of contested cases.

To justify his veto of the proposed revisions, President Ford expressed fears — a fear that "confidentiality would not be maintained if . . . investigatory law enforcement files would be subject to compulsory disclosure," a fear that diplomatic and military secrets "might" be endangered. Such concerns are specious.

The great names of American history were not those who were fearful or imposed censorship and secrecy. They were those who dug the foundation of our freedoms and fought to preserve and protect them because they recognized that without knowledge there can be no free society.

These freedoms — to know, to inquire, to criticize, to dissent — are now more than 180 years old in this nation. It is a sobering fact that each generation has had to review those freedoms and to validate them. And so it is today.

The Freedom of Information amendments represent a major — and essential — step to opening the federal bureaucracy to the people.

We commend the Congress for their votes. Their action reinforces the words of one of the country's most revered of jurists, the great Learned Hand: "The First Amendment presupposes that right conclusions are more likely to be gathered out of a multitude of tongues, than through any kind of authoritative selection. To many this is, and always will be, folly, but we have staked upon it our all."

School files now open

Previously closed school records are now open for parental inspection, under a new federal law which we encourage parents to use in a responsible manner.

On Wednesday, the law went into effect and permitted parents, and students older than 18 years of age, to inspect school records and request a hearing to challenge the contents of those records. (In Illinois, a guideline without the force of law has permitted such inspections for several years.)

Some school officials are concerned that the federal law may make counselors and psychologists reluctant to be candid in written reports on students. Critics argue that schools will merely keep counseling records in the principal's office, thus keeping them out of the hands of parents.

It must be remembered, however, that erroneous information unchecked by parents has been permitted to remain in some students' files, thus dogging students through school and perhaps into adulthood. The best kind of corrective to such abuses is openness, and we believe the new federal law will encourage much more accuracy in school record keeping.

Parents, however, must be responsible in examining records and must understand that much information on file is subjective. Many local school districts have a counselor on hand to explain school records to parents; in this way, misunderstandings about a student's records can be avoided.

This dual school-parent responsibility means that the education of children can become increasingly a two-way process, in which parents and school personnel participate. That's the way education should operate.

Presidency no hardship to 'enthusiastic' Ford

by HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, it appears, cannot understand why his predecessors bemoaned their awesome burden and viewed the presidency as a hardship.

Ford has stated unequivocably that he will definitely run for the presidency in 1976, because he "enjoys" being president.

Those may or may not be the words of a president in his infancy. He has yet to suffer a major crisis, although his quick pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon cost him support and upset many of his followers.

He naturally wants to win his own place in the White House and to carve out a place in history. Two years, any president would agree, is too short a time.

But now Ford has cleared the air. He has told other Republican hopefuls that it is too late for them. He also is trying to assure other world leaders that he has continuity in leadership and is making commitments that will hold up in the future.

But confident and secure as he is, Ford plans to run as an underdog. He says he must run with the feeling that he is going to lose — the way he has always run — and won.

Two years is not too long to have a hat in the ring. And from the White House podium, Ford knows he carries commanding prestige.

He can grab headlines every day by making news. If he whips inflation and recession, political analyst Richard Scammon says, he will be impossible to beat.

GERALD FORD

Ford is not going to be stampeded into bold dramatic actions, even to enhance his standing.

In fact, he appears wedded to some of the philosophical ideas he had in Congress, with no opportunity to hold sway. But there is the crack going around Washington that says: "I wish he would start running the presidency and stop acting like a congressman."

Ford would be the first to reject the idea that his is a "caretaker" government. Come January, he believes his programs will come more into focus.

But most of his own supporters are hard put to say where the United States stands on many leading issues. His administration in many ways is still on a shakedown cruise. Some of his critics believe he cannot get a grip on the executive branch to guide its future over the next several months.

By January, Ford was expected to drop many members of the Nixon holdover Cabinet, though many are resisting. When asked whether Nixon appointees should not leave, Labor Secretary Peter Brennan told an interviewer with a smile: "Ford is a Nixon appointee."

Ford is open to new ideas and has a campaign underway to solicit the views of outsiders. He is not afraid to change his mind, although he indicates a show-me attitude.

As the next campaign rolls around, he may broaden his base and keep his door open to the reflections of others, even the opposition which is somthing his predecessor never did.

Ford apparently can take it as well as dish it out. When he learned that Sen. Sam Ervin of Watergate fame had twitted him for not being "so smart" in a TV broadcast, Ford wanted to hear the tape.

More and more he puts himself in Harry S. Truman's shape and he always remembers how scrappy Truman was when the going got rough.

Like Truman he may take his case to the people if Congress remains stubbornly opposed. And like Truman, he may win in 1976.

The main obstacle to his running appeared to be his wife Betty who recently underwent cancer surgery, but now she says his decision to get a new lease on the White House is "great."

County line

Panic time for taxpayers

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
Metropolitan Affairs Editor

The post-tax homeowners' panic begins in suburbia when the Cook County treasurer's roster of delinquent taxpayers is published in local newspapers.

I. M. Broke, of Poverty Lane, is one of 7,069 Northwest suburban persons from five townships listed this month on Treasurer Bernard Korzen's "who's who" among non-taxpayers. The local total of unpaid real estate taxes tops $11.5 million.

Broke prepared for eviction this week. His house was number 03-99-107-000 on the Korzen list that warned in small print of imminent sale for overdue taxes.

"They're coming to get me, all for $13," Broke sobbed.

Broke's story began in August when Korzen sent a tax bill that was outrageously high. A total of 14 telephone calls and three wasted days later, Broke was in Assessor P. J. Cullerton's branch office in Arlington Heights to protest the overassessment that caused the tax bill.

The Cullerton officials promised a decision on the protest within weeks. Broke paid part of his taxes and waited for an assessment ruling.

Broke waited and waited. Early August turned into the Sept. 15 tax payment deadline. September turned into October and Korzen's cash register began adding interest to the due taxes. Then, in November, Broke became number 03-99-107-000 on Korzen's delinquent list.

Homeless, furniture in the street and rejected by his neighbors, Broke feared that the worst was coming when county tax sales begin in December.

However, through another round of telephone calls, Broke learned that the county planned to sell the amount of taxes due to a friendly collection firm which could bid semi-annual interest of 12 per cent for the right to send collection notices, place legal ads and seek court title to the property two years later.

Homeowners like Broke "are the people who should be concerned," a spokesman for County Assessor P. J. Cullerton said. "If they haven't paid their taxes and are waiting for results, they should give us the number of the complaint and we will process it immediately."

As Broke knows, Cullerton's phone number is 443-5300. Cullerton's real estate division is at 443-5308.

"Should I pay the $13?" Broke was asking.

Cullerton and Korzen aides say, "Yes . . pay now and wait for a tax rebate." Broke predicted that chances of a sunrise in the west are better than possibilities of a tax rebate by the county.

In another suburb, Broke's cousin also was sputtering about county tax procedures. Two weeks ago, the cousin, a homeowner in the New Town area of Mount Prospect, received a bill for back taxes from 1970, 1971 and 1972. Within days, Korzen's delinquent list was published and cousin Broke was listed with his neighbors for about $1,000.

"This makes me look like a criminal," said cousin Broke who was not taxed for three years, due to a county error. "I know I owe the money, but they could have given me time to pay before putting me on that list."

Al Messerschmidt

The back taxes technically are not due until early December because Korzen must allow 30 days for payment after mailing before penalty interest begins.

Other homeowners who actually paid their taxes or who obtained Homestead Exemptions also were named by Korzen. The property owners who won certificates of error or exemptions were listed in front of an asterisk because county tax books show a balance due. "These people have nothing to fear and are protected," the Cullerton spokesman said.

Broke's fear, like that of other taxpayers, is the interest and costs that are tacked to the back taxes as the days pass. The system, in the short run, says that winning is impossible. If the homeowner's loss is not in money, it's the time and frustration of bouncing from the assessor, to the county clerk and to the treasurer in the county's mis-meshed tax machine gears.

Broke now knows that the county's tax system cries for improvement.

'No vote fraud here'

Your article concerning a voting machine not working in Precinct 19, Wheeling Township, was false. It was also irresponsible reporting to include this falsehood under the headline, "Vote Fraud Complaints Flood Area."

The election judges in this precinct are conscientious and dedicated people who did an excellent job as usual. They are Shirley McDougall, Jack Guilfoil Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Davis and Arnette Bloome.

There was a line of voters after 5 p.m. (also at many other precincts). In fact, there were two lines, one for each machine. At 6 p.m. one line was shorter than the other line. Due to the physical location of the machines, the people in the long line then moved faster and possibly created the impression that one machine was not working.

I think your article was unfair to the judges and a printed apology in order.

School coverage hit

I am a student at Wheeling High School and I would like to comment on the fact that Wheeling never gets recognized in The Herald while many other schools do.

For example, Buffalo Grove got their homecoming queen and some of their sports events published and Wheeling's homecoming queen was not even mentioned, not alone published.

Another example of this is when Wheeling won their only football game this year, the day after this was not even mentioned, while when Hersey lost to Schaumburg, there was a front page picture mentioning that Hersey had lost and more details were in Sports. I do realize that the Hersey-Schaumburg game was of more importance, but I see no reason that Wheeling does not get very much or none at all, recognition while other high schools do.

JFK just a textbook name to today's schoolchildren

by LINDA PUNCH

Most Americans remember Jack Kennedy the man — husband, father, touch football player.

But school children of the Northwest suburbs see another person — John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 1961-63, 35th President of the United States.

Eleven years after his death, Kennedy has taken his place in the gallery of former Presidents. His life is condensed into short paragraphs, sandwiched between equally dry biographies of Dwight D. Eisenhower and Lyndon B. Johnson:

"John F. Kennedy. Democrat from Massachusetts . . . Navy PT boat commander . . . representative and senator . . . Irish Catholic from Boston . . . first Catholic President . . . youngest man elected president . . . assassinated Nov. 22, 1963."

IN MOST TEXTBOOKS, Kennedy's years in office are summed up in boldface chapter headings — The Election of 1960, The Peace Corps, The Cuban Missile Crisis, The Civil Rights Act of 1964, President Kennedy is Shot. Kennedy the human being is secondary to Kennedy the historical figure.

One eighth grade textbook describes Kennedy as "a man of grace and wit, (he) had an appeal that affected young people especially. His followers saw him as a new model of a democratic leader."

A high school textbook speaks of Kennedy's "attractive public image . . . the more glamorous of the two (presidential) candidates . . . the boyishly handsome young President and his beautiful wife . . . setting a new note in style and verve."

But most history books describe Kennedy only in terms of his presidential actions: "President Kennedy warned the Soveit government to destroy the Soviet bases in Cuba . . . refused to give up Berlin . . . tried to get better housing for Negroes."

TEXTBOOK PUBLISHERS say the dehumanization of Kennedy is a normal process of history.

"Textbook writers can't make value judgments. We try to avoid them," said Daniel Ryan, editorial director for Harper and Row Publishers Inc.

Rayan notes that "after a certain amount of time has passed, we're able to put things in perspective."

"We don't romanticize anybody — we just try to present them in such a fashion that people can make their own judgments," he said.

ONE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL textbook reflects in a passage on Kennedy's death:

" . . . Millions of Americans gathered around television sets to watch the dramatic events which ended with the burial of the President in Arlington National Cemetery. In sorrow, they could take strength from the courage which the President's widow displayed, but the style and the wit of the man were no longer with them."

Sacrifices' function: breach opponent's king

The most dramatic function of some sacrifices is the breach of the opponent's king position. If all goes well, the aggressor's pieces swarm into and through the broken position and over the exposed king.

Obviously, the increased activity given to the attacking pieces is the key element. Thus, a sacrifice only achieves what all less flamboyant moves aspire to achieve — piece activation and irresistible force.

Despite the relative scarcity of pieces, substantial sacrifices may occur in the endgame, though here the marauding elements will be more modest: an advanced pawn and an active king, for instance.

WE HAVE SEEN in our previous column how the centralization of the king may confer a winning advantage in the endgame. No better example may be seen than in the game shown in Diagram 1. But in this instance it will be the sacrifice of a rook for bishop, which will unlease the powers of the king.

White's 1. RxB looses a fury on the black position. After the recapture 1 . . . PxB, the king decisively enters with 2. K-Q4! The queen pawn must fall. And the white bishop, king, and pawns are irresistible against the less active black pieces.

The scenario is crude and effective. One of the doubled white pawns will be exchanged for black's last queenside pawn (white's only serious obstacle). The connected, passed pawns will make white's task child's play.

The first stage of white's winning procedure is achieved quickly with 2. K-Q4, K-K2; 3. KxP, K-Q2; 4. P-N4, R-K1; 5. P-B6 check, K-B1; 6. P-QB4, R-K4 check; 7.K -Q4, PxP; 8.K xP . . . (Diagram 2).

NOW THE BLACK KING is in defensive position, and the rook is more active. But these gains have come to the defender too late. The two advanced pawns, effectively bolstered by the white king and bishop simply are unstoppable.

After 8 . . . R-K7; 9. P-N5, R-B7 check; 10. K-Q5, R-R7; 11. B-B3, RxP; 12. P-N6, R-KB7; 13. P-N7 check, K-N1; 14. BxP (Diagram 3), we can immediately recognize there is no black defense to white's threatened B-K5 check, which will furnish the last fillip for the advanced queen knight's pawn.

Although the sacrifice shown here is brutal and perhaps too easy, it is a model of piece activation.

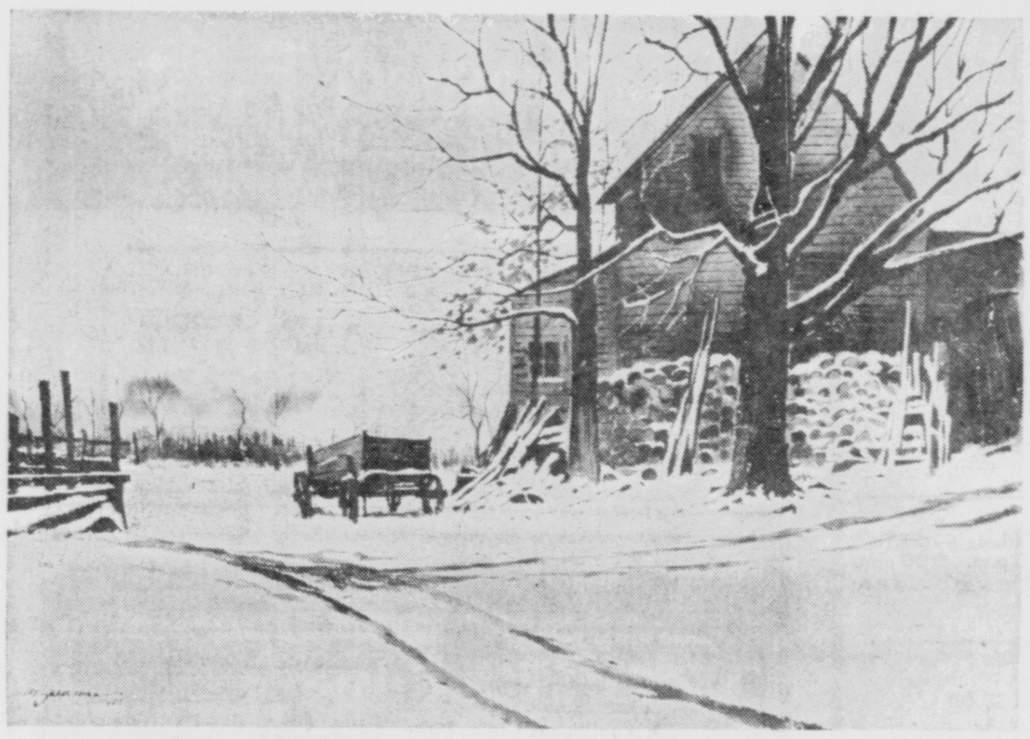
IT'S A GREAT FEELING TO HAVE AN OLDS AROUND YOU

THIS WATERCOLOR was suggested by an old home in Palatine. But Barkman improved on it, adding a front porch. The artist enjoys walking around Palatine because many old residences remind him of his home.

MICHAEL BARKMAN completes a watercolor, entitled "Dickens' Place," since reprinted as one of a series of four Christmas cards. Barkman remembers this scene well because it was the home of his uncle.



ANOTHER SCENE that Barkman vividly recalls is entitled "Kinzer's Farm." The Christmas cards are just now available to stationery stores.

Artist captures past on Christmas cards

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Michael Barkman is native to a small farming community in the mountainous region of Bedford County, Penn.

He's never tried to forget the rural, neighborly scenes of his youth because few places like that are left to experience. For that reason Barkman often recalls and records how he used to live.

The Palatine artist paints hometown scenes as he remembers them, instilling a respect for the past intrinisic to his small town heritage.

He's not one to put down the suburbs, having moved here with his family, though he does lament certain architectural losses attributable to modernization. Like wide front porches for instance. Barkman misses them. They are what he remembers most of all.

"WHERE I LIVED, the front porch signified hominess, an open invitation for anyone to come up and sit down. Of course, I did grow up in an area where almost everyone was related to everyone else."

Having now joined the transient American society himself, the watercolorist knows his recollections are old-fashioned. But he also feels it's what people desire to see . . . particularly around holiday time.

It seems only natural that he publicize his warm feeling and genuine yearning for the rural setting at a time of year when everyone appears a bit more compassionate and mindful of "the good old days."

Barkman has had four of his favorite scenes reproduced on Christmas cards. All but one are of Pennsylvania . . . his uncle's farm with a winter's supply of wood stacked neatly up against a shed . . . two youngsters heading home at dusk, making their way through open fields of snow with sleds in tow.

BUT ONE OF THE four was suggested by an older home in Palatine. Barkman twinged when he first saw the house. It reminded him of his own former home. Except the front porch. The Palatine house has none.

"In renovation it most likely was removed," he said. The painter remedied the situation by adding one to his liking.

Barkman's career in business has moved him and his family first to upper state New York and later to California, a place where his painting starved for lack of tradition and country heritage.

Having settled in Palatine two years ago, Barkman now enjoys seeing many of the old white clapboard homes intact, akin to those in the farming community in which he grew up. Inspired he again began exploring his memory, using watercolors to express on paper his recollections.

HE PREFERS THAT medium because "watercolors are a very spontaneous thing. Either you're right the first time or you start all over again. It's an immediate thing."

About the series of Christmas cards he's entitled "The Evening Before," Barkman comments, "They nostalgically reminded me of my home and those of my friends. I cannot look into a lighted window of a frame house at this time of year without hearing that familiar call from the porch to come in for dinner."

Inflation crisis

Wolf's at the door of British theater

by GREGORY JENSEN

That gurgling sound you hear is the British theater going under.

"The British theater faces bankruptcy," said Trevor Nunn, artistic director of the Royal Shakespeare Company and a man not given to mincing words.

"Costs have risen astronomically just at the time when audiences can least afford to pay economic prices," Nunn said. "Inflation has hit everyone in this country, but it has devastated the theater."

Legitimate theater in both London and New York suffers economic crises as regularly as summer follows spring. But this time British theater men are crying "wolf" because the wolf actually is at the door. Prices in London are rising more than 17 per cent a year. Some theater costs are skyrocketing much faster than that — heating, cloth for costumes, paper for programs, wood for sets.

This year, too, the number of American tourists has dropped 20 per cent, and Americans are staunch patrons of Britain's stage. A tax on tickets is another millstone weighing down a drowning theater, although legitimate theater in London is a lot cheaper than on Broadway. For these reasons all theater has gone off the deep end, not just the heavily subsidized giants.

"A substantial number" of out-of-London theaters "will be in deficit at the end of the year to such an extent that it will not be possible for the Arts Council to bail them out," said Sir Hugh Willatt, general secretary of the subsidy-giving Arts Council.

ON THE COMMERCIAL stage, a London version of the Broadway musical "A Little Night Music," due to open this month, was scrapped because no one would gamble its $350,000 cost. "It would have been madness to proceed in this economic climate," producer Richard Philbrow said. Other plans for lavish musicals are in doubt.

"Successful shows are doing very well," said John Gale, president of the Society of West End Theater Managers. "But the middle shows are struggling. Ticket prices aren't up all that much, but the cost of an evening out — the whole package — is up astronomically."

Peter Hall's topflight National Theater, another of the giants, is bewildered and reeling from an unalloyed disaster. "We're back to square one," a spokesman said.

Hall expected a massive deficit this year, hoping to make it up next year when the National moved from the small Old Vic to its multimillion dollar, three auditorium building next April. Now the opening of the new building has been delayed. No one knows when it will be ready.

"We've had to cancel committments with about 120 very disappointed actors," the spokesman said. "And if course, the delay is very expensive. At the moment nobody can say what our deficit will be. Everything's back in the melting pot."

NUNN'S ROYAL Shakespeare company will be $460,000 in the red this year, an official said. And that's just the tip of the iceberg. To raise cash, Nunn is sending productions to Broadway wholesale — two there now, with another touring the United States and more to come. He has launched a new theater membership scheme and plans a public appeal for donations.

"We have to hope that it will bring in something around 750,000 pounds ($1.7 million), which is the sort of figure we need," he said.

"Many smaller theaters are faced with closure," said Sir George Farmer, chairman of the Royal Shakespeare's governors.

Major companies like his own face a drastic cut in output.

"This could have a shattering effect on confidence in the arts that could last for more than a generation," Farmer said. "Internationally that would be seen as a very sad day for Britain."

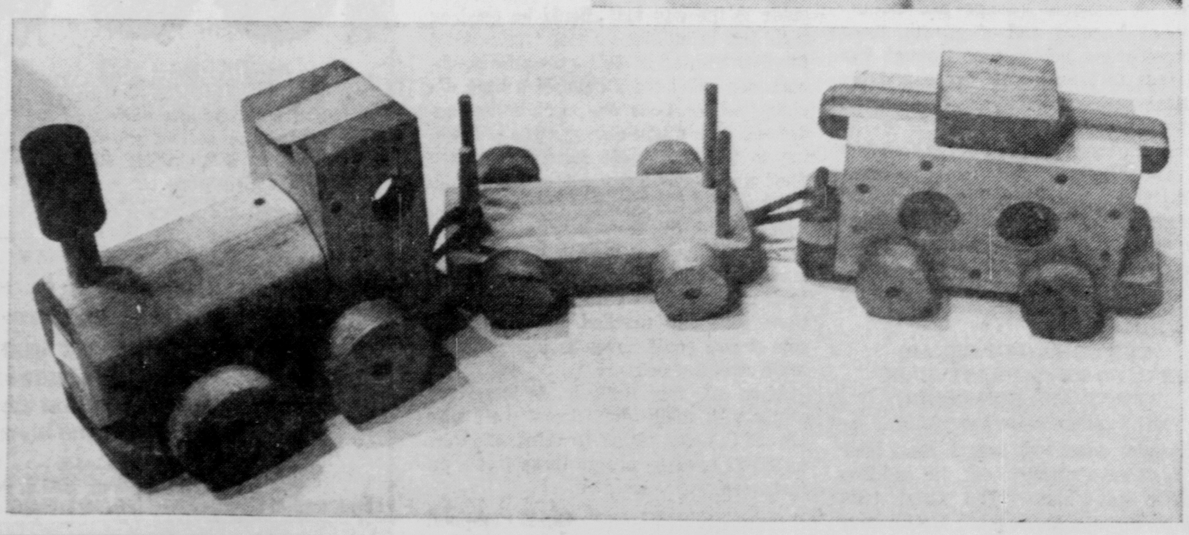
Designer's market

Something for everyone

IT'S THAT TIME of year again. The Designer-Craftsman Market at Countryside Art Center in Arlington Heights is in full swing. And what a selection — pottery, enamels, fibers and jewelry that exhibit the finest in craftsmanship. Though most of it is all for show, there are functional items, too, like leather purses and earthenware. A special "members only" display focusing on dolls, toys, decorative mirrors and ornaments, is set up in the back room. The items may not carry as much prestige, but prices are much easier to handle.



It's unlikely old violin could be Stradivarius

Collecting
with Grace Carolyn

Among the magical names, those that are repeated with a hushed voice and the word "genuine" in front of them, Stradivarius is the most musical (Pun intended.) Antonio Stradivarius was born in 1644 in Cremona, Italy, and during his lifetime he produced several hundred violins, personally, and taught the fine art to many students. He died in 1737. His violins have never been surpassed for beauty, excellence of workmanship and purity of tone.

Now every so often, I receive an inquiry about an old violin which has been in the family for years and years, and in examining it, the owner has found a label, faded and worn, bearing the legend "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonentes, Faciebat Anno 1734" — or sometimes 1768, or other dates, together with a monogram. Hope springs eternal in the human breast, and maybe — just maybe — the owner has a genuine "Strad."

TO ANSWER such queries, I quote Ralph and Terry Kovel, who have written many books on antiques subjects, from their excellent beginners' antiques book "Know Your Antiques":

"Many farmers living in the northern part of the United States and southern Canada have carefully guarded the valued Stradivarius violin that has been passed down through the family. Question each family and you will learn the same story. From about 1880 until the first part of the 20th century, a hungry peddler sold his treasured violin because of a desperate need for money." (Probably only one violin per several towns or farming areas, I should imagine, so the story didn't get around.)

"It was labeled 'Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis Faciebat Anno 1734,' so of course it must be real — but the real, unglamorous and often unwelcome story is that according to the experts, there are no unlisted Stradivarius violins. Ernest Doring, in his book 'How Many Strads' states that there is little if any chance that any new (old) Stradivarius violins will be found. He has traced all the available records and checked all of the known violins by Stradivarius. He determined that none of them could be missing."

THE KOVELS GO ON to say that the forged violins were made and sold in great numbers during the last part of the 19th century, and that some have a stamp "Made in Germany" or other words in English or German. Many other types were also forged at the time, bearing labels listing Giovanni Paolo Maggini, Nicolo Amati (the teacher of Stradivarius), Giuseppe Guarnerius, Carlo Bergonzi and Jacob Stainer, all with ancient looking stuck-on paper labels. Often the forgers weren't clear about their dates and "signed" the violins as much as 10 years after the supposed maker's death. Forged violins were made as late as 1930 in various parts of Saxony, France and Czechoslovakia, numbering the thousands, and these originally sold for as little as 50 cents.

The Kovels state that any really good musician or music supply house which is familiar with violins can tell you in an instant if you have a good instrument or a poor copy. If you determine that the violin in Grandma's attic is only a cheap reproduction, go ahead and cut a hole in it and mount an electric clock inside, or remove the front, put in notched shelves and use it as a spoon rack.

OR START practicing to play upon it, if you don't like your neighbors.

Eleanor McGovern story okay but need it be told?

The book stall

"UPHILL"
BY ELEANOR McGOVERN
WITH MARY FINCH HOYT
Houghton Mifflin, ($7.95)

Why is it that so many of the truly great men and women of this nation's past did not feel compelled either by their egos or their pocketbooks to write their memoirs?

Today, the nation would collectively faint from shock if any well-known public figure announced he or she did NOT intend to write any memoirs.

For we have been numbed into accepting — even expecting — such verbal disgorgements not only from statesmen, but from political saboteurs, common criminals, housewives who ask for divorce on network TV, men who concoct phony biographies, reporters and anyone who has ever known any of the above persons.

With that comment on the whole genre of memoirs, I would classify Eleanor McGovern as somewhere around average in having a worthwhile story to tell and in telling it — with the help of her press secretary. (After all, the experiences of politicians' families are a dime a dozen, and for sheer thrills, one would have to point to some of those more sordid tales being marketed.)

ON THE POSITIVE side, Eleanor McGovern comes through in her book as a keenly sensitive and perceptive person, whose hard-won insights on life in general and childhood in particular are sure to strike a responsive note in many readers.

I suspect her book would find an especially high degree of empathy among persons of her generation, who undoubtedly would identify strongly with her description of the Depression years.

Children of that generation as well, who have often heard their parents tell of the way it was, might be moved as this reader was by those poignant memories.

In fact, Mrs. McGovern's whole nostalgia thing — recollections of Woonsocket High, of "marching up and down the steps to the command of a bell," of "never questioning the relevancy of what I studied or how I was being taught," of being shocked at seeing the girls at college smoking — is likely to evoke gratification among her contemporaries.

BUT ELEANOR McGOVERN'S story is one of constant change and adjustment, of learning and of growth, from her motherless adolescence through her marriage to George McGovern and his political career, which she terms "the circus years."

She recognizes the flaws in the nostalgia and she discusses with firm conviction what she has come to believe are better approaches to child-rearing and education and life in an age quite different from the 1930s.

"THE GOOD (BUT CHEAP) CHICAGO RESTAURANT BOOK"
BY JILL AND RON ROHDE
The Swallow Press Inc. ($2.45)

If you're downtown over a meal hour but don't know where to eat, Jill and Ron Rohde's paperback "The Good (But Cheap) Chicago Restaurant Book" may help you stumble upon a neighborhood eating spot you never knew existed before or maybe even were afraid to try. Perhaps from the outside it merely looked like a corner bar.

Well it might be. There are lots in this book that are just that, but serve good home cooking besides. Atmosphere, except the down-to-earth kind, is not a pass to making the pages of this book. Only the food and the prices are judged.

There is a special section for splurges when picking up the bills isn't your problem. Yet here again it's the food and preparation that are taken into consideration, not glamorous or romantic surroundings.

SOME OF THE prices the Rohdes list appear almost unbelievable, particularly now when even penny bubble gum has doubled in price. I could challenge a few except why bother. The Rohdes set a $4.50 limit for themselves. If some dinners aren't as cheap as they might lead you to believe, they're still less than the set ceiling. And a good generous meal for under $5 in Chicago is still a good deal in my estimation.

The Rohdes' restaurant composite includes a sampling of ethnic dining from Bohemian-Czech to Yugoslavian. There are also sections on lunches, Sunday brunches and a section devoted just to snacks and "street eats." What does that mean? A beef taco partaken on Maxwell Street Sunday morning is one good example. Some of the best I've tasted I might add.

The Rohdes list Hackney's in Wheeling as a favorite hamburger spot though otherwise the northwest suburbs are ignored I take it they just don't get out this way much which is a shame. We have our own (though certainly not as many) cheap but good restaurants.

HOWEVER, THIS book is primarily a guide to the city and should be used as such. But bring along a map. Anyone not familiar with all of Chicago's little neighborhoods will have a devil of a time deciding on locations and deciphering addresses. You might discover you're heading to the South side from New Town when you could enjoy almost the same thing around the corner.

Organizing the various restaurants under ethnic headings is not a bad idea if a map had been included as a prelude to each new category with restaurant locations generally marked. All the small side streets could never be included, but main streets should.

After all, this book is designed for people who really don't know their way around the city, right? Or otherwise they would have come across these treats on their own.

Little exciting in latest Helen Reddy

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Helen Reddy's new album, "Free and Easy" (Capitol Records), is very unventuresome with one exception.

With this her sixth album, Miss Reddy has settled in a kind of middle-of-the-road groove. The results, as on this album, are often pleasant even if they do lack excitement.

The most unusual song — and not coincidently the album's best — is "Angie Baby," which is her new single. It is a well produced gothic song about this possibly crazy girl who can materialize lovers out of air and music or dematerialize the boy next door.

For the rest of the album, it is much what one would expect. There is the expected Paul Williams song ("Loneliness" which he has just released on his own "A Little Bit of Love" album) and songs by Don McLean, Mark James and Jeff Barry. The Pointer Sisters lend their voices to "Showbiz," the album's final song.

TWO OTHER SONGS of interest are "Free and Easy" and "I'll Be Your Audience." Both songs typify what Reddy and other established song interpreters are most valuable for other than the entertainment their own performances bring. It is the using of material by young or unknown songwriters, who through the experience of having a "star" record their material start to receive the recognition they deserve.

"Free and Easy" was written by Californian Tom Jans, who includes it on his first solo album, called "Tom Jans" (A&M records). Jans is best known for his performances and writing with Mimi Farina. However, he has written "Loving Arms" (again included in his own album) which both Dobie Gray and the duo of Kris Kristofferson and Rita Coolidge recorded. Jans also has had his material recorded by Frank Sinatra, Elvis Presley, Paul Williams and Tammy Wynette, to mention just a few.

Jans' album is mostly ballads and soft rockers with an occasional country touch. In addition to the two songs mentioned, the other highlights are "Margarita" and "Blue Sky Writer." He wrote eight of the 10 songs, reaching to Jackie DeShannon and Troy Seals for the other two.

"I'LL BE YOUR AUDIENCE," sung by Miss Reddy, was written by newcomer Becky Hobbs and her guitarist Lewis Anderson. Her debut album is "Becky Hobbs" (MCA records).

Miss Hobbs is a young southern blues singer, alternating the harsh and soft sound such as Janis Joplin, whose voice she slightly resembles, made famous. Born in Oklahoma, traces of the twang can be heard in Miss Hobbs' voice. All the album's songs are written by either her or Anderson.

I prefer the original version of "I'll Be Your Audience" which is found here. Miss Hobbs gets more emotion into the song. More lyrical, but as fine or better, are two ballads, "I Don't Know Why" and "Sorry To Bring Your New World Down." Another good shouter is "Can't Stop Being Your Fool."

Of the three albums — Reddy, Jans or Hobbs — I like the Hobbs album the best. She could become a big star very soon and then this album will be picked up on by all those who overlooked it the first time. (The song probably was picked for the Reddy album because Miss Reddy's husband, Jeff Wald, owns the company that manages both singers.)

MIKE McGEAR IS Paul McCartney's younger brother and a member of the successful British trio Scaffold who perform songs, poetry and satire. McGear changed his name so as not to cash in on his brother's success, but happily McGear turned to his brother, whose group Wings had just broken up, for his first solo album.

"McGear" (Warner Bros. records) is the bright, engaging result. McGear sings leads and wrote most of the lyrics, but McCartney wrote most of the music, produced the album and performs along with wife Linda and Wings guitarist Denny Laine.

There is the McCartney stamp all over the album and it is all for the good. McGear by himself proves not to be a bad singer. either. The best songs are a version of Brian Ferry's "Sea Breezes," McCartney's "What Do We Really Know?" (which opens with a brief snatch of "Taxman"-ish fun) and McGear-McCartney's rocker "Givin' Grease a Ride" and the epic, slightly spacy "The Man Who Found God On the Moon."

The album is a must for McCartney fans.

THE FOURTH Harry Chapin album is "Verities & Balderdash" (Elektra records) and like the previous albums it has both strengths and weaknesses.

This time, Chapin has played down the song epics he has become famous/infamous for (it depends whether you liked "Taxi" or "Sniper"). The only one is "What Made America Famous?", which is pretty ridiculous in its contention that "shorthaired" firemen would not go to rescue some kids from a burning building because they had "dropped out" and wore long hair.

Chapin does better this time on the songs that deal with the emotions of one person, such as the man on "Halfway To Heaven" who is tempted after 15 years of marriage by a secretary, the father's lament about lack of communication between generations in "Cat's In the Cradle" and the love story of "Shooting Star."

Chapin treads a thin line between empathy and pomposity and his failures still remain too numerous. But when he succeeds, he makes all the effort worthwhile.

Paul Hawkins wins Hammy

Entr'acte

Paul Hawkins of Schaumburg received the Guild Players' Hammy Award for his performance in the role of Randall P. MacMurphy in Dale Wasserman's "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

The traveling Hammy, a wooden piglet that is patterned off the movie industry's Oscar, is presented to the best performer in each of the Guild's productions.

Guild Players is celebrating its 17th year as a community theater group. Though based in Hoffman Estates, membership is open to all area residents interested in community theater.

The next play produced by the Guild will be Agatha Christie's "Mousetrap" to be staged in February. Auditions for the mystery thriller will be held early in the new year. Further information concerning the community group is available through 882-7498.

Kathryn Kucera, Mount Prospect artist, is one of three women whose work will be featured at Artemisia Gallery next Tuesday through Dec. 21.

The gallery, located at 226 E. Ontario St. in Chicago, is a women's coop, formed to increase the coverage and appreciation of work by female artists.

'Cuckoo's Nest' returning for two extra performances

A return engagement of The Guild Players' fall production "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" will be presented Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6 and 7, at Vogelei Barn, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

The Dale Wasserman stage adaptation of the Ken Kesey novel met with such critical and popular acclaim for the four performances in October that arrangements have been negotiated for two additional performances featuring the same cast under the direction of Vic Simone, Hoffman Estates. Curtain time is 8:30 both nights.

This is the first time in the 18-year history of The Guild Players that a production has been extended beyond its original dates. As not more than 325 people can be accommodated for these two performances and since there has been a heavy demand for tickets, The Players suggest early reservations. Readers may get ticket information by calling 885-3897, 882-7498 or 529-9262.

The new manager of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel is Eugene R. Scanlan, who has set some precedents on the way to this post, which finds him to be the first chef anywhere to attain such a position in a major hotel. Before, he was the first native American to be executive chef of a prominent hostelry, followed by another first as director of food and beverage and a director of the hotel corporation. He came to the Waldorf in 1942 as a kitchen apprentice under the legendary Oscar.

James Darren forsakes Gidget for nightclubs

by GENIE CAMPBELL

It seems a shame a first-rate entertainer needs to find a gimmick first to gain recognition.

Take JAMES DARREN, for instance. He'd never have had opportunity to hit the nightclub circuit if it weren't for his prior role of Moondoggie in "Gidget." But some people must have liked watching him and Sandra Dee cavort about because there was more . . . "Gidget Goes Hawaiian" and "Gidget Goes to Rome."

But forget all that. A very poised, white-suited James Darren is on stage in the BLUE MAX without Gidget and though many of his songs seem repetitious in arrangement, his show is easy to listen to and includes tunes that demonstrate his ability to sing.

His country medley of "Husbands and Wives" is a favorite of the evening and "The Last Blues Song" puts real sparkle into the show. Darren's musical conductor is Eric Knight. The Blue Max show at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare is further enhanced by a 13-piece orchestra, but comedian JOHN REGIS, who proceeds Darren, should be run out of town.

This year turkey is cheaper by the pound, but if Thanksgiving to you means relaxing and dining out, plenty of restaurants in the area are prepared to accommodate that whim. Prices for most special Thanksgiving menus are quite reasonable.

THE GREENHOUSE in Countryside Shopping Mall, Palatine, is offering not only Turkey with all the trimmings at $5.50 for adults, $3.50 for children, but also sirloin steak at twice that price and broiled Lake Superior whitefish at a figure right in between.

The same $5.50 for a turkey dinner holds at CARSON INN NORDIC HILLS in the Scandinavian Room and INDIAN LAKES COUNTRY CLUB. An interesting side dish at Nordic Hills is beef goulash. That's in case you don't like turkey.

HUGO'S at THE HYATT REGENCY O'HARE is featuring turkey and nut dressing at $6.60 per person, $4.25 for children, though more informal dining with no reservations necessary is available in THE GARDEN TERRACE.

Thanksgiving buffet dinners where you can literally stuff yourself, and return for still more, are being offered at ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS at $7.95 for adults, $4.95 for children and at the CHICAGO MARRIOTT MOTOR HOTEL at $7.75 for adults, $4 for children.

PICKWICK HOUSE in Palatine is serving Thanksgiving dinner family style at $4 per person for a minimum party of six and $3.75 per person for 10 persons or more. The restaurant is also offering a continental champagne brunch between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. next Thursday.

New openings include MAMIE VAN DOREN now entertaining in the TOP OF THE TOWERS through Dec. 7 and SERGIO MENDES & BRAZIL '77 with THE MIRACLES beginning Tuesday at GOLF MILL and continuing through next Sunday, Dec. 1.

The new DRURY LANE EAST THEATRE in McCormick Place will officially open Dec. 4 with GINGER ROGERS in "FORTY CARATS."

The new theater, housed in a refurbished meeting room located in the southwest end of the lakefront complex, will offer both general admission as well as a dinner/theater combination.

Dinner made available two hours before curtain time will be served in McCormick Place's President's Walk Restaurant or the Lindheimer Room.

If you have a good crepe recipe, take it over to THE MAGIC PAN in Woodfield Shopping Center and you might win a dinner for four.

Magic Pan is sponsoring a "Favorite Crepe Recipe Contest" until Thanksgiving after which the competing recipes will be tested in the kitchen. The winning one will be featured as an entre on the menu until Christmas.

The recipes may be for dinner or dessert crepes and will be judged on originality, flavor and appearance.

TOM THUMB Players open their 29th season Friday, Nov. 29, with the Rogers and Hammerstein musical "Cinderella." Andrea Rukower, Arlington Heights, and Ralph Bartuch, Des Plaines, have roles in the musical classic. All performances are at 2:30 p.m. at Tom Thumb Theatre, 2323 W. Devon, Chicago. Nine Saturday and Sunday matinees will be given Dec. 1-Jan. 5.

Mini shops for artisans

Craftsmen are always looking for a place to exhibit their work. That's what Jim Connors and his partner, Jim Thompson, are counting on.

In their new venture, The French Quarter, officially opening Dec. 1 at Countryside Shopping Mall in Palatine, there will be nine individual "mini shops" where artisans may buy space by the month to show their work.

Connors, who for thee years traveled around the world, has himself stockpiled a collection of artwork that he wishes to sell. For two years he seached for just the right store. Now he feels he has found it at Countryside Mall, though the floor space available was more than enough for his own needs.

That's when Connors came up with the idea to share the room and the overhead by partitioning off small cubicles and allowing other craftsmen and artists from the area to rent exhibiting space.

THE $350 FEE is steep enough to rule out part-time hobbyists though Connors places no real stipulations on his potential renters. Except to say, "If I like it, it will go in."

In addition to saving space for his own office and small import shop that will feature wood carvings, silk and rice prints, gold and silver jewlery, batiks and some paintings, items priced from $10 to $400, Connors plans to open a French pastry and coffee shop. It's in keeping with his international theme.

Utilizing a cosmopolitan approach in the decorating scheme, the row of small cubicles resembles a street of European shops.

Connors feels there are enough craftsmen in the area who, though not interested in opening shops of their own, would enjoy a place to exhibit periodically.

Further information concerning the "mini shops" in The French Quarter is available through Connors, 358-5595.

JIM CONNORS sits on the floor of his own shop at The French Quarter, checking over some of the southeast Asian art he will be featuring. Though not all the shops are rented yet, Connors is currently open for business.

Caroling scheduled at Countryside Mall

Countryside Mall at Northwest Highway (Rt. 14) & Baldwin road, Palatine, is inviting church choirs and school choral groups to perform at the Mall during Christmas season.

Children's groups are being scheduled for afternoon performances and adult groups for evening. Among those already on the program are the Camerata Singers of Harper College, Winston Churchill Grade School Chorus, the United Methodist Church Choirs, First Baptist Youth Choir, Christ Lutheran Church Children's Choir and the Choristers from Immanuel Lutheran School.

Dates are Dec. 11 through Dec. 24. Those interested in joining the holiday festivities may reserve a date and time by contacting Judy Dotson, 359-9646.

Antique toy, doll display at Randhurst Center Dec. 1

"Dolls and Toys of Yesteryear," a toy fair featuring an extensive collection of antique toys and dolls, will be held Sunday, Dec. 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Town Hall on the lower level, of Randhurst Shopping Center.

A benefit for the Christmas Seal agency, the doll and toy show will have exhibits provided by various private collectors. Chairman of the event is Mrs. Shirley Bertrand, a Wheeling doll collector who is also the Christmas Seal chairman for Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

Dolls to be shown range from small figurines once used on wedding cakes to rare imports as well as the familiar classic dolls used by children for many generations. A wide variety of doll costumes and miniature furniture in doll house settings will also be on exhibit.

A SPECIAL SECTION will be set apart for boys and their fathers who like model trains and other mechanical toys.

A century-old Pennsylvania Dutch "Christmas Yard" originally built for C. Russell Small of Winnetka by his father will be featured at the doll show for the first time. It consists of a barn, mill and other buildings along with miniature animals and people needed.

The Rolling Medows Christmas Seal queen, Mary Mazzenga of Mount Prospect, will serve as "Santa's helpers."

Admission is 75 cents for aduits and 25 cents for children 12 and under.

Children's play at library

A talking cat, an evil magician, a crazy gypsy, a beautiful princess and Santa Claus will take up residence at Schaumburg Township Library, 32 W. Library Lane, when The Players of Schaumburg present their December Christmas extravaganza, "Puss In Boots" and "A Visit From Santa."

Adapted by Madge Miller and directed by Sonja Leraas of Schaumburg, "Puss In Boots" dramatizes the story of the cat Minette's attempts to make her master, the woodcutter Christophe, a rich and famous marquis so that he may marry the Princess Angelique. Standing in the cat's way, however, is a wicked Enchanter who also desires to marry the Princess so that he may steal her five-leafed clover for a magic brew that will enable him to live forever.

MINETTE ENLISTS the help of King Claude and the gypsy Lise to help her complete her plans while The Enchanter uses magic, which includes transforming himself into a lion, to impress the Princess. In an exciting finale, Minette triumphs and leads the kingdom's residents in a celebration that includes the appearance of Santa Claus. Santa then joins the audience for the singing of traditional Christmas songs and the distribution of a special gift for each child present at the various performances.

Original songs and dances for The Players' "Puss In Boots" were created by Lynda Sears of Mount Prospect, who also performs the role of Minette. Miss Sears is resident choreographer for The Players.

"Puss" performances Dec. 1, 8 and 15 will be at 1 and 4 p.m. Tickets are $1 for children under 10 and $1.50 for all others. Group rates for parties of 10 or more are also available. Due to the limited seating capacity of the library theatre room, reservations are recommended and may be made now by calling 359-9476 or 885-2360.

TANGRAMS

This old Chinese puzzle has just seven pieces. You may be surprised to find all the ways you can arrange them. Cut out this pattern and glue it to a sheet of construction paper. When it's dry, cut along the dotted lines. Can you put the seven pieces back together to form the square?

Next, using all seven tans, can you make each of the figures below?

Now, try to assemble the seven tans into other interesting figures and shapes.

Dear Dorothy: How can one tell what type of heel one should wear with various kinds of clothes? For instance, is there a specific time for patents and suedes? — May Young

These days you decide on your own comfort and sense of fitness, May. One good example is that a high heel isn't particularly suited for a very tailored suit, yet it's considered okay these days if you choose to go that way. There has never been a time that people have been as sensible as now about shoes — although I have to exempt my pet horror, those high-heeled, open-ankled platform monstrosities.

Before I broke an ankle, I wouldn't have been caught out in public with anything less than a two-to three-inch heel. Now I buy for comfort and find them pretty attractive. Looking around, it seems most people have swung in the same direction.

Dear Dorothy: I was given a bagful of butternut squash, and my kids promptly said, "Yuk!" My husband cut it up and fried it just like French fries. The young ones not only asked for seconds but requested it three days in a row! — Dorothy Dunnigan

Thanks for sharing. That's an interesting way to do butternut squash. For those not well versed in squash, you prepare for cooking by paring it and scooping out the seeds.

Dear Dorothy: Do you have any instructions on how to get lime out of copper-bottomed tea kettles? — Mrs. Roger Grady

The most popular method recommended is to put a solution of vinegar and water (half and half) and let it boil for a few minutes. Pour out the scum and rinse thoroughly. If the kettle is washed regularly, or you put in an oyster shell or a couple of agates (marbles), the excess scale will cling to these things.

Dear Dorothy: The time has come to send homemade cookies to arrive in time for Christmas; and like many others I'm fretting about whether they'll wind up packages of crumblies. What's your best advice on how to pack them? — Frances Barber Delighted you brought this up, Frances. I've been meaning to get back into this little problem, simply because I made a mistake last year — not in the instructions but in paying attention to so many who protested about what I suggested. What was recommended was packing cookies as carefully and tightly as possible in a metal container, then placing in a corrugated box, filling it with popcorn to ease the transit bumps. You should have seen the indignant letters, most saying popcorn could absorb fumes from airplane engines and be unsafe for eating and so forth. So I backed away and suggested shredded or crushed newspapers or cut-up polyethylene foam.

Your letter prompted some checking with the airlines, and the indignation was turned around. Turns out they carry pets, flowers and all manner of foods in the baggage compartments and maintain there isn't an instance of fumes in the cargo sections. They say popcorn is indeed an ideal packing material and fun eating at the receiving end. Only thing they add is to put the word "perishable" on your packages. Happy baking — and happy mailing.

League plans party cookbook

The Service League of Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center-North is planning to compile and publish a party cookbook. The benefits committee, Mrs. Pat Brandenburg, chairman, is in charge of this project.

The cookbook will consist of recipes for appetizers, dips, hors d'oeuvres, punches and favorite drinks. Also included will be party menus, such as gourmet, ethnic, holiday and surprise parties as well as decorating and party ideas.

All interested women are invited and urged to submit recipes. There will be a recipe box at "The Big Attic" resale shop, 8 N. Roselle Rd.; recipes and ideas may also be mailed to Mrs. Brandenburg, 1736 Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg.

Keep feet dry

The American Medical Association cautions mothers against letting the small fry wear winter boots with wet linings. It might cause Shoe Boot Pernio, or childblains.

The AMA caution is based on a report in Archives of Dermatology. The report tells of several children who came down with the nasty skin condition after playing in the snow. The snow got into the waterproof boots, melted and encased feet in ice water.

Pernio results in painful, tender, bluish-red nodules that last about 10 days to two weeks. They itch and burn.

Pawning jewelry to fight inflation

More Americans are pawning their jewelry to fight skyrocketing inflation, reports The National Enquirer in a nationwide survey.

A pawnbroker in Trenton, N.J., says, "I haven't seen anything like it since the Depression." Another pawnbroker in Detroit reports the situation is so desperate that "workers are hocking the tools that they need to make a living."

HOLLYWOOD glamour of the '30s

WIVES OF THREE area mayors, Mrs. Russell Puzey, Inverness; Jane Meyer, Rolling Meadows, and Mary Clarbour, Arlington Heights, were greeted by Nancy McIntosh of Barrington, standing, chairman of Northwest Suburban Christian Woman's Club at Tuesday's luncheon, featuring fashions from world-famous designers.

For Christian Women's Club

Show stresses inner beauty, too

by MARIANNE SCOTT

"As ye sew, so shall ye rip" was an instructor's comment to designer Ruth Peachy who, Tuesday, told an audience of nearly 600 women of her early struggles in sewing classes.

Owner of her own shop in Buffalo, N.Y., Miss Peachy presented an animated and entertaining commentary during a showing of designer fashions which she later followed with an inspirational talk on women's need for God in their lives.

Speaking at Allgauer's Fireside at a joint gathering of Northwest Suburban and Northshore Christian Women's Clubs, Miss Peachy said that women have needs greter than clothing. A woman can be beautiful on the outside, but on the inside it's often "a totally different story."

You could hear a pin drop as she outlined a six-point plan to put God into one's life. "Be obedient to what the Bible has to say," she advised.

HER LIVELY commentary during luncheon was laced with amusing remarks such as "How do YOU look over the mornng toaster?" and "The hemline will always be where it's always been — at the bottom of the hem!"

Hemlines in the designer showing were mostly at the floor for the collection was loaded with beautiful holiday fashions. Diane Von Furstenberg, Oscar de la Renta, Halston, Yves St. Laurent, Bill Blass, Mollie Parnis, Donald Brooks and mountain artisans were all represented in the collection of flowing chiffons, glittery sequins, satins, matte jerseys and velvets. There were floor-length capes, floor-length cashmere sweater knit gowns, patchworks, ruffles and feather boas.

And for fun there was a white fur-collared peignoir and a washable gold apron. Another "cooking outfit" boasted its own pot holders decorating the ends of long panels.

A long bias gown with hemstitched seams was reminiscent of Hollywood glamour in the '30s. A gown of Lycra Spandex wasn't even suggestive of a girdle. A few gowns were the new "intermission" length, which is above the ankle but below the calf. Just below-the-knee outfits included a "paper bag" skirt in UltraSuede. Featuring a high waistline, the skirt is drawn in at the waist with a belt, leaving the upper fabric fluted to the bust.

ALSO IN ULTROSUEDE was a fur-collared coat worn over a paisley pant suit. Another outfit featured velvet pants with point d'esprit blouse.

O, hes, there was also a skimp, Halson's revival of the mini skirt of the '60s. "It's for those under 30 and then only those with good legs," cautioned Miss Peachy, who thoroughly enjoys the constant changes in the fashion field.

Models for the show were members of the Christian women's clubs. Members also furnished the centerpieces — a variety of layer cakes on tall pedestals.

Christian Women's Club members are from all age groups and represent all Christian faiths. A worldwide organization, it has more than 1,000 chapters in the United States.

Next meeting of the Northwest Suburban club will be a Christmas luncheon Tuesday, Dec. 3, at Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn. Those wishing further information may call Lavonne Evans, 398-7337.

Did boudoir diplomacy win freedom?

Television in review

by Frank S. Swertlow

NEW YORK—After watching CBS' "The Ambassadors" Thursday night, you may begin to wonder if the fate of the American Revolution really hinged on boudoir diplomacy, eavesdropping and keyhole-peeping.

Although you admire Ben Frankin's wheeling and dealing in the decadent court of Louis XVI to gain support for the United States in its battle against Britain, this reviewer was left incredulous at the art of 18th-century diplomacy.

Ben Franklin, as played by Eddie Albert in this first mini-series on the Revolutionary hero, wenches his way across France for the American cause. Admittedly, Franklin's noble savage act in the crumbling atmosphere of Versailles was well received by the ladies, but one doubts how much of the Revolution was won in the boudoir.

Then, too, Franklin's clever cultivation of French and English spies is a bit unbelievable as they pop in and out of his home. And finally, one doubts just how much of a fool the Count de Vergennes was as Franklin outwits him in every joust.

Certainly, much of this may have happened. here are certain histories to back it up, but if it was all true, then what machinations were used to settle the Vietnam War and the Middle East battles.

THE PROBLEM with this 90-minute production, although entertaining, is that it was based on Franklin's autobiography and a work by Carl Van Doren. They are the American view of the era.

Otherwise, "The Ambassadors" is a splendid production filled with beautiful women, elegant costumes and a juicy plot. And above all it ranks favorably with many British imports on PBS.

Eddie Albert, at first, is a bit too youthful as Franklin the septuagenarian, but once you get used to that, he is very comfortable to watch.

Equally pleasant is Gig Young as Vergennes. And Frank Langella is superb as Vergennes' assistant. Langella could be the best cinematic cad since the late George Sanders and Lawrence Harvey curled their lips.

Ten schools (115-2 record) battle for state crowns

Ten schools with a combined record of 115-2 — including eight unbeaten teams — will converge on Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University this weekend for the first-ever title games in five classes in the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Football Playoff Series.

All five championship games will be telecast live throughout Chicagoland, and in downstate communities with cable stations on the WGN system, while nearly 20 radio station throughout the state will carry the games on the Big I Radio Football Playoff Network sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents of Illinois. The hookup includes WWMM-FM of Arlington Heights (92.7).

Champions will be crowned in three classes — the smallest three — Friday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. The remaining two champions will be crowned Saturday, beginning at 11 a.m.

Pairings for the title games are:

Friday, Nov. 22

9:30 a.m. — Class 1A — Flanagan (11-0) vs. Concord (Triopia) (11-0)

Noon — Class 2A — Alexis (11-1) vs. Decatur (St. Teresa) (12-0)

2:30 p.m. — Class 3A — West Chicago (12-0) vs. Mt. Carmel (11-1)

Saturday, Nov. 23

11 a.m. — Class 4A — Rockford (East) (12-0) vs. Normal (Community) (12-0)

1:30 p.m. — Class 5A — Northbrook (Glenbrook North) (11-0) vs. East St. Louis (Sr.) (12-0)

The dramatic impact of "November Nonsense," a kissing cousin to the "March Madness" of the annual basketball tournaments, is expected to lure capacity crowds to Hancock Stadium both days.

Should single-session tickets (which allow the bearer the opportunity to see all games scheduled that day) be available, they will go on sale at the Hancock Stadium Ticket Windows at 8 a.m. Friday and at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

All but one of the finalists earned their berths in the playoffs by claiming their conference championship. Concord (Triopia) emerged from one of the three "At Large" berths per class, which were filled from the ranks of independent schools, conference co-champions selected by their league or conference runners-up. Triopia is an independent. Schools were classified on the basis of average conference enrollment. A total of 65 conferences were divided evenly among the five classes.

The Class 1A title game will pit Flanagan's powerful offense, led by high-scoring fullback Greg Gundy, against a Triopia defense that has produced four straight shutouts and has allowed only 26 points in 11 games this season. Flanagan, the Mid-State Conference champion with an enrollment of 171, is coached by Roger Zehr, who is in his second season. The Falcons belted previously unbeaten Genoa-Kingston, 37-7, in their semifinal game. Triopia, coached by Don Kemp, who is in his 22nd year, blanked Villa Grove, 14-0, in the semifinals.

Decatur (St. Teresa), with a winning streak of 32 games, will wear the favorite's cap against Little Six co-champion Alexis, in the Class 2A title tilt, but Coach John Elder's Cardinals, even with a defensive unit that averages 160 pounds, have been scored upon by only two foes in 12 games. St. Teresa, under the direction of first-year Coach Ed Boehm, is the Big Okaw Valley Conference champion, and the Bulldogs blitzed highly-regarded Watseka, 20-8, in their semifinal confrontation. Although Alexis is a 2A school, its enrollment is the second-smallest of the 10 finalists at 194. Elder also is the school's principal.

North Egypt champion Mt. Carmel will be the underdog in the Class 3A game against Little Seven champion West Chicago. West Chicago, coached by Paul Unruh, has an enrollment of 1,628 and is scheduled to leave the Glen Ellyn and Wheaton schools in a new league. The Wildcats nipped Geneseo, 3-0, in the quarterfinals and then blasted Elmhurst (Immaculate Conception), 20-0, in the semifinals. Coach Larry Davis' Mt. Carmel Aces have won two cliff-hangers en route to the finals, nipping Mt. Zion, 14-13, in the first game and then Quincy (Catholic Boys), 3-0 in overtime, in the semifinals.

Rated as one of the greatest teams the city of Rockford has produced, Rockford (East) will turn its balanced, high-powered offense loose against Capitol Conference champion Normal (Community) in the Class 4A game Saturday morning. Coach Bob Pellant's E-Rabs have been awesome offensively all season and have been held under 27 points only once — a 7-2 win over Downers Grove (North) on Oct. 4. Rockford (East) brings a 22-game win streak into the affair. Normal (Community) is led by fullback-turned quarterback Kurt Swearingen and sprinter-turned halfback Dave Short, both of whom have gained over 1,800 yards rushing this season.

The finale features the "Afterburner Army" of East St. Louis against the defense-oriented Spartans of Northbrook (Glenbrook North) for the Class 5A title. Southwestern Conference champion East St. Louis, which returned 40 lettermen from last year's team, is led by quarterback Maurice Tolson and halfback Stanley Braggs, both of whom were members of the Flyers' state champion relay teams last spring. The Flyers have destroyed three foes thus far in the playoffs, including a 46-0 blitzing of Chicago Catholic League champion Gordon Tech in the semifinals. Glenbrook North, the Central Suburban North champion, after nipping powerful Evanston, 7-6, in the playoff opener, has gained momentum each game and trounced highly regarded Villa Park (Willowbrook), 26-7, in the semifinals.

Area puts footballs away; basketball begins tonight

A Herald Staff Report

Follow the bouncing ball.

Yes, it's that time again.

Basketball replaces football — at least in the Herald area — in the sports spotlight tonight as the wraps officially come off the 1974-75 high school season.

While statewide attention is directed at Illinois State University for the state football tournament, area interest is focused on the sport that annually bounces into the picture in November and bounces out again in March.

Fourteen area high schools will tip off their basketball seasons this weekend with 10 games tonight: Palatine at Maine East, Cary Grove at Buffalo Grove, Stevenson at Rolling Meadows, Barrington at Wheeling, Hersey at Crystal Lake, Proviso West at Arlington, Hoffman Estates vs. Elk Grove at Addison Trail, Benet at St. Viator, and Oak Park at Maine West.

In Saturday play Prospect's highly regarded Knights will face a touted Evanston team in Evanston, Buffalo Grove travels to Stevenson, and Glenbrook North to Palatine. In the Addison Trail tournament Elk Grove will meet Lake Park at 7:00 and Hoffman will play Addison Trail at 8:30.

Five area teams were previewed in the Thursday Herald. Here's the way the rest of the openers stack up:

PROSPECT

For a team that has been in the Mid-Suburban League playoffs three of the last four years, annexed two overall titles, tied for the championship on two previous occasions and won more games than anybody else in the 11-year existence of the conference, Prospect doesn't appear very ready to sit back and rest on its laurels.

The Bill Slayton-led Knights jump into action Saturday at Evanston and come back next week against two more traditional area powerhouses. With nearly a complete starting lineup back in the fold, Prospect is expected to hold its own in these early tests and continue on through another serious run for the loop throne.

A good many MSL coaches, in fact, have already labeled Prospect as the bunch to beat around here.

Slayton isn't buying any of it, of course . . . yet. "It's a bit premature and not necessarily welcomed," he said. "There are too many strong teams and too many rivalries within the league to pick a winner at this early stage . . . and I don't exactly relish the added pressure."

The veteran coach did not deny, however, that his club has the talent to take the top prize. "It's been won with less material than we have this season, but other clubs could probably make the same statement. There are too many factors involved to equate any certainties in sports and our objective right now is simply to show an improvement over last season."

Just what do the Knights have? For openers there are Paul Withey, No. 3 rebounder in the league in 73-74 and owner of a 14.5 scoring tempo, and Al Black, the No. 5 scorer in the circuit with a 17.2 average. Withey is at 6-9 and Black is up to 6-3.

There is also 6-8 Doug Bonthron, among the top 10 most accurate from the field last season and a scoring and rebounding threat in his own right this year, along with 5-11 Mike Quade. All Quade did in the previous campaign was notch 84 assists (to rank third in the circuit), average over eight points a game and finish among the MSL leaders in free throw accuracy.

The fifth starting berth is open right now, but the coach is strongly considering four possibilities. One is 6-7 Ted Reynolds, another is 6-2½ Chris Etter, a third is 6-3 Dave Mann and finally there is 5-10 Mike Finley.

All are seniors except Etter, who is coming off a solid sophomore year. Rounding out the squad are 5-8 Mark Longrie, also a junior, and 6-7 Duff Valentine.

Even a .500 mark would better last year's 9-14 overall slate, but much better things can be expected of Prospect. They finished strong a season ago following a sluggish start that had them dropping their first six contests, and in two late

Friel responds to pressure

There is a tendency by those close to the University of Illinois scene to overreact to any Illini football victories.

The reason is obvious. There haven't been that many wins of any significance in recent years.

That's why it wasn't surprising when one Champaign-Urbana sportswriter labeled the winning touchdown pass to Hersey High School product Marty Friel Saturday in Minnesota "the play that may be recalled years from now as the one that put Illinois football over the hump . . ."

Friel, a sophomore tight end, came off the bench to haul down a 25-yard scoring pass with 45 seconds remaining as Illinois tipped Minnesota, 17-14, in Minneapolis.

That writer may be stretching things a bit with his cheerleading of the moment, but there still might be some substance to the observation. It merits examination because of Friel's involvement.

First of all, there can be no question that beating Minnesota in football these days hardly merits front-page attention. Everybody seems to be beating the Gophers, one of the most puzzling football stories in the Big 10.

However, it still was a victory the Illinois program needed badly because it assured the school of at least a .500 season, something they haven't had in football since 1965. OK, all you Ohio State and Michigan fans, you can laugh at that, but there are some schools that view a .500 season as an "accomplishment."

Believe it or not, Illinois could have an honest-to-goodness winning year with a victory Saturday in the season finale against Northwestern. That's a mind-boggler in a program that has had such snappy records as 1-9, 0-10, 3-7, and 3-8 in recent years.

Every school tries to develop a winning posture, but a series of sub-.500 seasons chips away at any positive attitude. And it makes for a difficult selling job to the blue-chippers, kids who want to be part of a winner.

That's why the writer attached so much significance to the catch by Friel and the victory over Minnesota Saturday, assuring Illinois of at least a .500 season and possibly a year with six victories.

For the record, Friel, who was an All-Stater at Hersey in 1972, has pulled down only three passes this season at Illinois. Marty was in the game Saturday because the regular tight end Joe Smalzer was exhausted, but he didn't blow his chance in a pressure-cooker situation.

"Jeff (quarterback Jeff Hollenbach) threw it perfect," said Friel. "I saw the safety coming for me, but I never did see anyone else. All I could think was 'I hope I catch it.' "

Marty Friel

Friel came into the game with Illinois on the Gopher 25 with a first down and 51 seconds left. Smalzer, who needed a breather after catching 10 for the day and running nine pass routes in a row, probably would have gone back in on the next play.

Friel carried in the game-winning play from the bench.

"Marty came in and told me to call 'Sprint, back choice,' " explained Hollenbach. "He's the primary receiver on the play and he ran the route just the way he's supposed to. I almost was hit before I could get the ball away. In fact, I never did see Marty catch it. I was flat on my back. When I looked up he was running in the end zone."

Smalzer, the regular tight end, celebrated on the sidelines after watching Hollenbach and Friel click for the game-winning score.

"I'm happy for Marty," Smalzer said. "He's a very good tight end . . . and don't forget he's just a sophomore. I can remember how it was for me as a sophomore. I had trouble just walking out on the field.

"He showed a lot of poise in a pressure situation. He's in a lot on goal-line situations for blocking purposes and there's a lot of pressure then, too."

How did Friel react?

"Out of sight," said the happy Hersey product. "I don't know what to say. I haven't caught that many passes here."

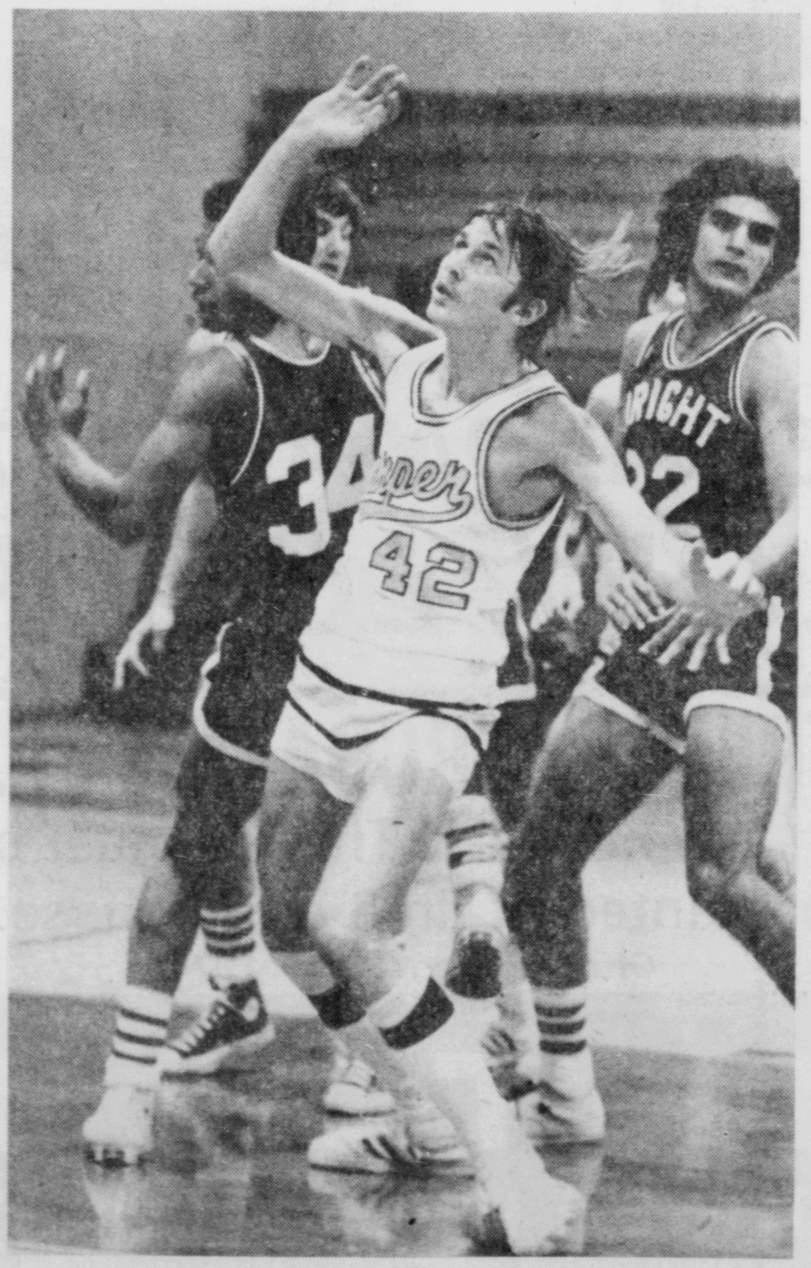
Positive reaction under pressure is a plus for any athlete, and Friel responded with class Saturday that should lead to more playing time. He's backing up a fine receiver, but Smalzer is a senior.

From obscurity to a hero . . . with one scoring strike.

"Friel, go in for Smalzer," came the call from the coaches.

One play later, Friel had a touchdown and Illinois had a victory.

Marty Friel will catch more passes for the University of Illinois, but he will have trouble topping the significance of that dramatic grab Saturday in the 30-degree temperatures of the Northland.



THIS MAY NOT be the most graceful way to block out for a rebound but Harper's Steve Schmidt (42) has the right idea as he moves in against Wright's Oscar Towne (34). Harper lost but will try to regroup tonight at Elgin.

Fan's forum

Reaction from St. Viator fan

Dear Sirs:

I am writing this letter in response to the ridiculous letter you received from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thorton (Fans Forum, Nov. 15). For starters, Mr. and Mrs. Thorton, let's take this scene from a different perspective — the students. After talking to fellow St. Viator students I think I can speak for the majority.

As far as rights go, consider the students. Who are you to determine the way we show our loyalty? From your letter I gather you were not as loyal fans as those students who were standing Saturday. Those students have followed our team the entire season. Again I question your thinking that you have as much, if not more, right as these faithful students.

In reference to your third paragraph — from my past experiences at games, I know people tend to stand along the fence because the bleachers are overcrowded or for a better view, not because somebody refuses to stand up. It has always been that the students reside in the middle section of the bleachers, standing most of the time. So next time you come to a St. Viator game, try sitting on either side of the student section where many people have seen and enjoyed many games while sitting.

Your attack is unjust — I'm referring to the one on the patrolmen. There was no disturbance to be taken care of. As for our priests and brothers, they were watching the game and obviously saw no reason or cause to "control" — as you put it — the standing fans.

Have you ever considered the fact that you were infringing on the students' rights, instead of them on yours? If you were that interested in the game, I'm sure you could have relocated yourselves to a better spot.

And lastly, in no way do St. Viator and Sacred Heart teach their students to be inconsiderate of others. How can you judge any school negatively because they won't sit down when showing great pride and spirit?

Craig Ameel
St. Viator student

MORE LITTLE LEAGUE COMMENT

Dear Sirs:

It seems Williamsport Little League people have the all-time strange logic. If they were running the Olympics and the Russians happened to beat us out for the team title by winning more gold medals, they'd probably rule that the next Olympics would be a private affair in the United States. They'd also probably rule that only those countries — such as Monaco, Portugal, Sweden, Scotland and other biggies — would receive invitations.

The Little League officials should all be fired for disallowing other nations from competing with the U.S. in the annual affair known as the World Series. From now on, according to these so-called officials, the rest of the world won't be invited.

BRING BARRINGTON HERE

Dear Fans Forum,

In response to a letter in Fans Forum, I would like to say that Barrington High School indeed is too big for its little brothers in the North Suburban Conference. It would be a good idea to bring the Broncos into the Mid-Suburban

Three 211 teams open cage action

Dist. 211 sports

A Herald staff report

Three Dist. 211 varsity basketball teams open their seasons this weekend — all away games.

Hoffman Estates, playing its first varsity competition ever, will be at the Addison Trail Holiday Tournament, starting tonight.

Also going tonight is Palatine, being entertained by Maine East.

Sautrday will find Schaumburg at Maine North.

Fremd will open the season on Wednesday night at the Glenbard West Holiday Tournament.

Two days later, Conant will get its campaign underway when it hosts New Trier west.

Here are the reports from the Schaumburg, Palatine and Hoffman Estates camps:

HOFFMAN ESTATES AT ADDISON TRAIL

Hoffman Estates will be fielding what its head coach calls a "medium quick" basketball team when it opens up varsity play for the first time this weekend in the Addison Trail tourney.

"We're not very big," says Coach Jerry Segebrecht, but he's hoping that the Hawks' quickness will help them through their varsity and junior varsity schedule.

The Hawks will test Elk Grove tonight at 7:00 with Addison Trail furnishing the opposition on Saturday, starting at 8:30 p.m. The round robin tourney will wind up on Wednesday night when Hoffman faces Lake Park at 7:30.

"We wanted to play a varsity non-conference schedule to give the kids some insight as to what it's like to play varsity competition," explains Segebrecht.

Hoffman's 15-man team doesn't have a senior on it. All are juniors. As sophomores last year, this group had a respectable 9-11 record.

Figuring to start in this inaugural varsity contest are Tom Cannon (5-9) and Joe Gajewski (5-10) at the guard sports, Steve Currier (6-1) and Jim Villers (6-0) at the forwards and Gene Foster (6-2) at center.

Also on the team are Pat Flahive, Paul Harshbarger, Rick Karpel, Kent Karr, Randy Krizmanich, Chuck Squires, Mike Strawn, Paul Lutz, Jim Moore and Steve East.

Segebrecht says he expects his boys to "hustle a lot, play good defense and control the ball on offense. They tangle with a handful of varsity teams along with the Mid-Suburban League jayvee schedule before the state tournament.

PALATINE AT MAINE EAST

Winning may be only secondary for the Palatine basketball squad tonight at Maine East. If coach Ron Finfrock coaxes a victory from his boys in the season opener, it will be a pleasant bonus.

The coach's primary purpose tonight will be exploratory. Finfrock plans to do some experimenting in an effort to come up with the proper team combination.

For the first time in years, Palatine has no outstanding team leader. There is no playmaker who can compare with former Pirates Jim Arden or Rick McCormick.

"That will definitely be our one sore spot this year," said Finfrock. "Who will run our ball club? So far we have no floor leader."

The coach hopes to rectify that situation under game conditions tonight. His leading candidates are a trio of seniors — Chris Burrus, Al Iuorio and Jim Herbst.

Compounding Palatine's problem is the fact that only two varsity players are left from last season's 9-11 team. Both are starters — Jim Maycan, the 6-foot-3 center, and 6-5 forward Mark Mara.

The Pirates will get help this year from 6-5 sophomore Kevin McKenna and Bill Stevenson, also 6-5. Both are untested at the varsity level.

"We'll take a wait-and-see attitude this year until we find out what we can do," Finfrock said. "The guard problem is important. Another key to our club is to try to get Mara to go to the boards more. Mark jumps very well but we have to get him to play at both ends of the court."

Palatine will be trying to forge their first winning season in more than 10 years.

"We have more size this year," the coach added, "but we don't have as much quickness. We'll know more about the team after the first game. Then we may have to modify a few things, but we'll do a lot of substitution against Maine East."

SCHAUMBURG AT MAINE NORTH

The new spirit at Schaumburg High School is only partly due to the recent success of the football team. There is a feeling around school that the basketball team is on the verge of its most promising campaign, too.

"We'll be fielding perhaps the best team since we've opened the doors here," said head coach Joe Breault. "We're shooting for a .500 season and I think we can do it. It's not impossible."

The Saxons, winners of just five games last season, sport a new look this year with a pair of transfers in the starting lineup. The only returning starter from last year's squad is junior forward Jon McIlraith, who was top scorer with a 15.7-point average in 1973-74.

"Looking at the total picture," said Breault, "we've got a supporting cast this year to take some of the pressure off Jon. This might be the year that McIlraith shows what kind of ballplayer he is."

When the Saxons open Saturday evening at Maine North, seniors Ron Geels and Bob Viviano will be in the backcourt and juniors Marty Golub and Ed Chmiel will join 6-2½ McIlraith in the front line. Jeff Fahrenwald, a 6-4 forward, and guard Tom Garrison will serve in reserve roles.

Viviano, a six-footer who can jump and Golub are the key transfers.

"Viviano is from Detroit," Breault noted, "and last year he played on a very disciplined team with a strong man-to-man defense. He's a good passer — very conscious of continuing the flow of the ball. He doesn't shoot much, but when he shoots it goes in.

"Golub is a good jumper," said Breault of his 6-3 transfer from Crete-Monee. "and he's a very aggressive ballplayer."

"We've got the speed to run a lot," the coach said. "We've got nice size — not really big — to play both ends of the court. On defense, we'll try to put on as much pressure as we can."

From campuses nationwide

—Making a strong bid for a varsity football letter at Carthage College this fall is 5-9, 225-pound defensive tackle Randy DiVito of Arlington Heights. The former Prospect High School gridder started all four of the Redmen's junior varsity games this fall as they finished with a 1-2-1 record.

DiVito has also seen considerable action with the Carthage varsity, which is 5-3 for the season.

DiVito is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald DiVito of 324 S. Dale in Arlington Heights.

—Jessie Laffey, of Palatine, received a varsity letter in tennis competition this fall at Knox College. The Knox team finished with a 5-2 dual meet record.

—Day Myszka, from Maine West, and Ken Slepicka, from Wheeling, chipped in their efforts for North Park College in a losing effort as their team fell to Carroll College 49-6. Tailback Myszka had a good day running the ball, going 90 yards on 23 carries. Slepicka played at quarterback and worked some razzle-dazzle for North Park's only score when he pitched out to a running back then streaking downfield to catch the touchdown pass.

The following week Slepicka had a hand in turning the tables for North Park as they upset Wheaton College, 15-14. Slepicka was a starter in the last three games and won two of them. His passing set up two touchdowns in the win over Wheaton.

—Area athletes are sparkling for Indiana State where Bob Radzis, from Elk Grove, was given a football Hatchet Award for inflicting damage on the opponent; Bob Mellin of Palatine, John Golbeck of Arlington Heights and Ed Paul of Mount Prospect are all scheduled to compete for the Sycamores' gymnastics team in the Indiana Collegiate Invitational.

Craig Combs of Arlington Heights is also on the squad.

—Mark Wilkans, from Buffalo Grove, a junior at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Ia., was one of 44 letter winners for the 8-1 Kohawks.

—Rich Valentino, from Prospect High School, Dave Sakata, from Elk Grove, and Jim Wilcox of Prospect, are all being counted on heavily by the Eastern Illinois University gymnastics squad.

Asle Klemma, from Schaumburg, is a freshman at Eastern and considered to be the best all-around prospect in several years.

—The Eastern Illinois swimming team is boosted by the presence of two area athletes. Dave Toler of Elk Grove was named an All-American in the relay last year while John Fisher of Buffalo Grove won a letter for his diving.

—Craig Dahlquist, 1010 W. Noyes in Arlington Heights, is being considered for a varsity letter by the Faculty Athletic Committee at Monmouth College.

MIKE MILLNER (30), from Elk Grove, looks past Wright defender Clement Naughton for somebody to pass to during Harper's opening loss to the Rams. Ivy League star cleans up his act

by IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK—There was a time, Pat McInally acknowledges, when the following description which appeared in a Harvard football program this season was accurate:

". . . McInally, a 6-6, 210-pound marionette, who looks as though he were strung together by some football-crazed Gepetto, (will break) from the Harvard huddle and toddle off to the sideline with his wooden, herky-jerky gait. The pumping of his long, bowed legs will cause his shoulders to jiggle at crazy angles.

"The shirt-tail of his crimson jersey will be dangling, and the stockings, pulled tight and taped, will still leave three inches of shin exposed. The helmet will be askew."

That's old hat. McInally, Harvard's record-breaking pass catcher and potential first-team All-American, says he has lately been "cleaning up my act."

"I always tuck my shirt in before going out for a pass now," he said recently. "But when I run my pass pattern it's not so bad. Look at O.J. Simpson. He always looked crummy running from a huddle, too . . ."

Running the 40 in 4.6 seconds, McInally has been busting Harvard pass-receiving records like crazy. As a junior last season, he caught 56 passes for a one-season school record, his 6.2 catch average per game was second in the nation. He also led the Ivy League with 43 receptions. Besides this, he is the team's punter, kick-off specialist and extra-point kicker. He is having another outstanding season and may be the first Harvard player ever chosen in an early round in the pro draft.

For the last several decades, Ivy League football has fallen into national disrepute, by football fans and non-football fans alike.

Take the former first. As McInally, a native of Orange County, Calif. — a rockbed of conservatism and football adoration — recalls, Ivy League football has been considered a game played by "weirdos and faggots."

"Where I'm from," said McInally, "football was Southern Cal., or UCLA, or Oklahoma or Notre Dame."

Few recall that once Harvard football was famous and rugged. When Walter Camp began All-American mythmaking, in fact, he chose only Harvards, Yalies and Princetonians on his first team in 1889.

When Ham Fish was playing, the game was so rough, "Barnyard Football" it was called, that an opponent, Army's tough left tackle, Ici Byrne, was accidentally killed in a massive pileup when his neck broke. For years, Fish sought to dispel the rumor that he led that charge on Byrne.

Chub Peabody was also a player of menacing bent. "I can still hear the thud when Peabody crashed into Navy's Barnacle Bill Busik headon," Harvard coach Harlow used to recall. "That was the hardest tackle I ever saw. Busik lost his zest for football then and there."

Harvard, however, did not keep up with high-pressure recruiting procedures, and thus began to play second-fiddle to the growing national powers in the Midwest, South and West.

McInally says, that today's Ivy-League player is as good as any other in the "skilled" positions, such as backs and ends. The difference is that schools like Ohio State have the big linemen while not a single Harvard lineman smiles with a snaggle-tooth.

Many people at Harvard, however, did not know this about McInally. They figured that anyone who puts on a helmet to cover his head must be a monster. McInally says that classmates and girls from nearby Radcliffe all carried the view that football equalled Neanderthal.

Not until he proved himself in the classroom as an American History major did McInally begin to get respect, and dates.

"It wasn't until I came to Harvard that I ever heard the word 'jock,' and at first I thought it was a compliment," said McInally. "I was a real hayseed from Villa Park, California. People there adored athletes. They called us 'studs.' I thought jocks and studs were the same thing. I learned."

Now, his steady girl friend is a Radcliffe English major from New York City named Lisa Mann. Her father, Robert, plays first violin in the Juilliard string quartet.

There was tension when McInally and Mr. Mann first met. But that has subsided. In fact, only recently did Mr. Mann call McInally long distance, seeking help.

"I'm stumped," said the violinist in New York. "I'm working a crossword puzzle."

"How can I help?" asked McInally in Cambridge.

"Do you know a six-letter word for a strategic football kick?"

"Onside," replied McInally.

"Great," said Mr. Mann, and hung up — another football fan thrilled by Pat McInally, Harvard's first All-American football candidate in years.

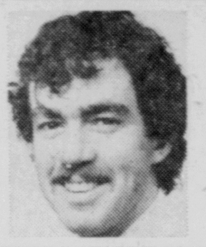
It's no longer 'Harper High'; Hawks grow in stature

Charlie Dickinson
Staff Sportswriter



The myth that Harper football, and all of junior college football for that matter, is a purgatory between high school and the four year colleges no longer applies. It is as dead as the joke about "Harper High" that was so popular among area high school students back when the college first opened its doors.

Because, regardless of the packed stands at high school games and the rows of empty seats watching Harper play, the best football, the most exciting football in the area, is being played at Harper.

The Hawks are through for this year, finishing 6-4 for their second consecutive winning season. But while the season is over some late returns are still arriving.

The latest news is that six Harper players, four on offense and two on defense, have been chosen to the All-State junior college team.

That's roughly one-fifth the entire squad. More than a third of the offensive team made it. It is also impressive in that only Ervin Kimbrough had made the All-State team in the last three years while half a dozen make it in one season.

It makes you wonder why nobody came to see them play.

Joining Kimbrough on the offensive team are Frank Bavaro, Gary Mueller and John Kern. Bill Nash and Dugan McLaughlin made the team on defense.

Ironically, Harper coach John Eliasik kind of prefers the idea of a junior college as, if not a purgatory, at least a training camp of sorts.

"Only Kimbrough and Mueller," Eliasik said, "had any sort of buildup when they came out of high school. I think this shows how much a year or two of development can help a player.

"Many of the football players in this area," Eliasik continued, "feel they have to go right to a four year school. There is pressure from their parents and the standards set by their friends. Nobody wants to go to a two-year school because it has a reputation that doesn't really apply anymore.

"And, if a player doesn't receive a scholarship because the major colleges don't think he is ready then more often than not the kid's parents will pay for his education instead. And then the player may go out for a team and sit on the bench for two years or longer."

Eliasik sees junior college, and Harper in particular, as an attractive alternative to this.

"First of all," he said, "the education you can receive at Harper is reason enough to attend. People have the idea that a junior college is a place where athletes who aren't bright enough to cut it in a four year school go to pad their grade averages.

"Players around here should realize, too, that they can't always go right from high school to college. Bill Nash is a good example of this kind of player.

"When Nash was at Dundee," Eliasik said, "he didn't play in either his junior or senior year of high school. He's small for his position (5-8, 160-pound nose man) but he has great quickness and he impressed enough people to be voted All-State.

"I don't think there is any question that he has developed at Harper much farther than he would have at a four year school.

"Kids of this age often aren't through maturing physically when they get out of high school. There is the chance they'll run into players of superior physical talent at a larger school and become so discouraged they'll quit and never really develop into the type of football players they are capable of becoming."

Kimbrough, Bavaro and Kern will cut the All-Staters on the team in half next year when they graduate this spring.

Kimbrough, who in addition to making the team was picked as the second best offensive player in Illinois behind Joliet's Rick Stanford (who rushed for 128 yards against Harper and over 1300 for the once beaten Wolves), was a second team All-America last year and when the team is chosen early next month Eliasik thinks he could be on the first team.

"I think Ervin has a great chance to make the first team," Eliasik said. "That would be very rare. I think only two or three players from Illinois have made the first team in the last ten years."

In two years at Harper Kimbrough, with 63 catches for 1132 yards and 98 points, has demonstrated his ability to play at just about any level he would choose. Eliasik recently proclaimed Kimbrough capable of landing somewhere in the pros, particularly the World Football League should it survive.

Bavaro has been less spectacular but more consistent, catching his passes in crowds or wide open, healthy or injured.

With three of the All-Staters returning Eliasik realizes the importance of recruiting the talent to fill out his squad. Harper didn't play a single team this year that had fewer players on the roster.

A comment from Joliet coach Jerry Yost is an indication of where Eliasik will be searching.

"If Harper could get the good players from their area," Yost said, "they would be, from year to year, the best football team in this area and possibly the state."

Harper's backyard is crawling with talent. Much of it not quite ready to make the big step up to a four year school.

Eliasik is counting on talking some of them into taking that half step into the purgatory of junior college football.

Basketball age groups are high school, seventh and eighth graders and fifth and sixth graders. Deadline for registration is Friday, Dec. 6.

The high school players will play at Parkview School each Tuesday, beginning Dec. 19 and running through Feb. 11. Games will be held at 7:00, 8:00 and 9:00. The fee is $3.

Seventh and eighth graders will play at Feehanville School on Fridays, Dec. 6 and Feb. 7. They'll play at the same hours as the high schoolers with a similar fee.

Fifth and sixth graders will be in league play at either Feehanville or Robert Frost schools on Saturdays, beginning Dec. 7 and running until Feb. 8. They play between 1:00 and 3:00 with emphasis placed on instruction and development in basic basketball fundamentals. The fee is $2.

Wrestlers from the fourth through eighth grades will have a program at River Trails Junior High's cafeteria. They'll meet, starting on Monday, Dec. 9, between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m. and also on Saturdays between 9:00 and noon.

The wrestling fee is $5. The minimum weight is 55 pounds. Knee pads and wrestling head gear are required. Gym shoes are allowed, but wrestling shoes are strongly recommended.

Ice hockey will be offered to boys from fifth grade through high school. Four leagues will be organized.

The fifth and sixth grades will have an instructional league where basic hockey techniques and drills will be taught along with regular scheduled games. Never has so much sold for so little.

Right now we admit that not many people have ever heard of Churchill Scotch. But you will.

Churchill offers a lot more than merely a famous name. Our taste is just as memorable as our label.

Above all, Churchill represents a remarkable value. You get full 86 proof Scotch for less than you pay for some 80 proof Scotches.

So we're going to make some history of our own. Be the first on your block to have a drink with Churchill.

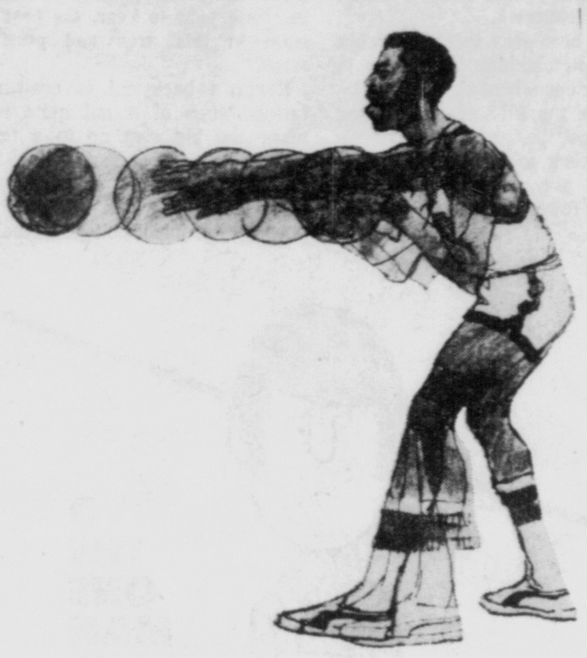
Basketball tips



by WALT FRAZIER & IRA BERKOW

(Last in a series)

You have to have control of the ball. If I don't have a good strong grip before I pass it, my ball will normally be intercepted or I'll throw the ball into the hands of the guy selling popcorn.

The great passers throw soft but firm passes. Soft enough for the receiver to handle, quick enough for it to get there.

You should always make certain that the guy you're passing to is ready. If the ball is stolen it's always the passer's fault. Even if I hit a guy in the back, it's still the passer's fault, because he threw the ball. If a guy's not looking, even though he should be looking it's still your fault.

You should be in control and not throw the ball if it's not going to lead to something good. Just because the receiver is always supposed to be watching the ball doesn't mean he is.

Leading a man on a pass is not easy. It's all in judgment. If you can judge how far away a guy is you can pass to him. You want to throw it so that he can catch the ball without breaking stride.

You can practice passing to a certain extent. You can practice being a quarterback. You can improve, but you might never be great at it. It's just a talent that some guys have. Everybody can't be a pitcher, no matter how long or hard they practice.

I think there's a knack involved that is instinct and is unexplainable. But you can practice against a wall. You throw to different spots. And you can practice passing with teammates. Always trying to develop a good rhythm, a good feel.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

THOSE TWO ARMS stretching to either side of Jesus Alvarez (3), belong to Harpers' Steve Schmidt. The Hawks lost to Wright and will try to get into the win column tonight when they travel to Elgin for a 7:30 game.

At Beverly Lanes

Herr continues to lead the Parkway Men's League at Beverly Lanes by 4½ points. Wagner paced the league-leaders with a 559 series and 206 game. Gutwein moved into second place by blanking Slottag, 7-0 with Gutwein contributing 617-236. Heimann hitting 205 and Donahue rolling 211 and picking up the 5-7 split twice. J. Herr of Neland hit 575-204, Schuessler had 556-224 and Meyer 540-213. Juretschke recorded 629 off 211 and 225 while taking four points from Quade even with Glenn Quade's 571-200 and Schmidt's 204.

At Elk Grove Bowl

In the Mixed Nuts League Jim Nelson bowled a 644 with games of 236-255-153 to top the league . . . He was followed by Vance Olson at 187-204-205—596. Deck Hildebrandt 202-184-165 for a 554 . . . Dolores DeBartoli led the women with a 549 on games of 200-197-152 . . . Other high games were by Ardell Bleatman 181 and Kathy Fountain 181.

League, if possible, since their enrollment is more similar to schools like Hersey and Forest View.

A am a long-time fan of high school sports in this area and I yearn for the old days when Arlington and Palatine journeyed up to Barrington regularly for games in football and basketball. These towns have a natural rivalry and they should be exploited as much as possible, not just in occasional nonconference matches. Barrington deserves competition from larger schools and the people in this area have a right to see outstanding athletes like Frank Shellenback, Rob Simond, and Gary Hallberg.

ANOTHER PRO TEAM?

Fans Forum:

If the Chicago Sting expects to get this city's fans excited about soccer, they've got another think coming. There's no way another pro sports team can survive in this town, not when there are five others that are floundering. One time before, the promoters thought they could sell us pro soccer, but they were wrong. This country (and this city) will never accept soccer.

HARRIERS SAY THANKS

Dear Editor:

Just a note to thank you on behalf of the 1974 Fremd cross country team for the outstanding coverage we received during the past season. We wish to thank Mr. Art Mugalian, in particular, for his accuracy and his obvious interest in reporting our successful season. It is this type of excellence that makes Paddock Publications a pleasure to work with and helps to reward the athlete for his dedication to athletics.

season encounters with state semifinalist Hersey, the Knights were edged by narrow one-and three-point spans.

ELK GROVE

Bill Parmentier, the head basketball coach at Elk Grove, remembers Ken Pollitz like a man who has lost his first love. The Grens' leading scorer from last year is now a freshman at the University of Missouri and Parmentier is faced with opening the season tonight against Hoffman Estates in the Addison Trail tournament at 7 p.m. without him.

"I wish you could have seen that kid," Parmentier said. "He would do anything to win. I'd work his butt into the ground and get all over him and he would respond like the true champion he was."

Working kids hard has stood Parmentier in good stead since coming to Elk Grove from Lockport West five years ago. He has long since abandoned the finesse style of basketball he was brought up on in southern Illinois for the physically aggressive, and intimidating, manner he demands of his Grenadiers.

"I don't know if you've ever played basketball," Parmentier said, "but coaches have kids run the lines. Going from the baseline to the free throw and back then to the center court and back. Well, we have 'em dive at the lines here. If there is a loose ball I want three shirts the color of Elk Grove on top of it right away."

Parmentier's coaching methods will undergo a severe test this year. His team is small and only slightly quick in some positions. But like all Elk Grove teams before them which played under Parmentier, the starting five of Greg Kelley and Joe Parmentier at guards, Jeff Smith at center, Bill Prince and Steve Carson at forwards will all play defense. Or else.

"It's been my philosophy since I've been here," Parmentier said, "that no matter how good a player is offensively, I'll put the five best defensive players out on the floor.

"Prince can't do much on offense," Parmentier said. "but he's an excellent defensive player. Kelley is the same way. He was a starter last year. I'm expecting a lot from Carson because he started for us last year.

"I'm going to play a lot of kids this year. Everybody is at about the same level in ability. We've been winners here for three years in a row and I'd like to see it continue. This group could do it but it'll take a lot of work."

ARLINGTON

Two-time North Division champion Arlington will be sporting somewhat of a different look this season, but you'd better not blink if you want to see it.

"We've got better quickness than we've had in a while," veteran coach George Zigman said. "We'll be speeding up our game a little bit to make up for a lack of size and muscle."

Crouching in the blocks for tonight's season opener are backcourt speedsters 6-foot Jerry DeSimone (a two-time letter winner) and 5-9 John Yeazel.

Frontliners should include forwards 6-4 Dennis Gaare and 6-0 Mike Fogel while the chore of handling the pivot goes to 6-6 Terry Donohue.

"We have to have him in the lineup to win," Zigman said of his 200-pound center. "He's more agile and a little stronger than he was last year."

The competitive nature of the Cardinals will stress defense, but Zigman admits that he's got some shooters on the team and a bench that he won't hesitate to call on.

"Jim Grandt (6-1) forward) and Greg Kloiber (6-2 center) will see a lot of action at the beginning of the schedule," Zigman said.

"We're going to have to hustle to win with this team," added. "The North Division appears too balanced this year. An off night against any of those teams could be disastrous.

"Our main concern will be boarding with some of these other teams. We're going to have to learn to get physical in a hurry."

ST. VIATOR

The folk who endured St. Viator varsity basketball last winter, a 2-20 season, might remember Bill Foreman as that skinny, almost unathletic kid who played one forward. He didn't seem to belong physically and was constantly overpowered.

But dashing, young Viator coach Steve Antrim saw two qualities he admired in Foreman: Pride and hidden ability. So Antrim went with Foreman all season.

And now the Lions' coach says you'll see a different Foreman this season, starting tonight when Viator hosts one-game winner Benet Academy in the opener of six consecutive home dates.

"I'm big on brother acts," said Antrim. Foreman has been preceded through Viator's basketball program by brothers Eddie and Denny.

"And you could see Bill had the skills. He just wasn't strong enough," Antrim said. So Foreman lifted wieghts and worked his body to new limits during offseason. He's up one inch to 6-foot-4 and added 20 pounds, now a solid 175.

"He's the biggest of the brothers and from the people who've seen them all, Bill clearly works the hardest," Antrim said. "He'll be our money player."

It wasn't a bundle of fun last season at Viator. Antrim took over as head coach after two 19-11 seasons at Mendel. He inherited a bunch of kids with little experience. The only senior starter was Terry Keehan, eventual East Suburban Catholic scoring champion.

Now the cast has experience. And, insists Antrim, they're eager to prove Viator is no basketball lollipop. Starting with six home games surely helps.

Four frontliners return plus one young man who played reserve forward and lettered. Largest of them is 6-8 junior center Glen Girard. He's been sidelined two weeks with bruised leg muscles but will start tonight.

"Glen's so much better than last year that it's really unbelievable," said Antrim. Freshman Paul Wiloff, 6-6 and 180, will spell Girard and start preliminary contests during early season games.

There's strength at both guards in 6-0 senior Paul Kastner, an intelligent athlete who knows the game, plus 5-9 junior letterman Ralph Casciaro.

Only newcomer upfront is forward Bill Heffernan, a 6-3, 185-pound senior. He lettered last season after brief appearances and contributes strength.

Returning Viator basketball to a competitive level can't be done in a single season. Antrim knew that last year so he stuck with kids. Now they're one year older and the Lions should be well ahead of their previous 2-20 pace.

MAINE WEST

The kids all grew and that's got Maine West head basketball coach Gaston Freeman quite pleased. With important lettermen at two positions, it's an early season experiment to decide who'll get the call at three spots when Central Suburban League games begin on Friday, Dec. 6.

Locked in are guard Glen Heiden and forward Steve Zuccarini, seniors on a squad that numbers just one junior, forward Bill Fininis.

Spectators who've watched Heiden know he could emerge as a truly fine pure shooter. He averaged one dozen points on last year's club which won nine and lost 15.

But that was as a skinny six-footer. Now, Heiden's grown to 6-foot-3 and nearly 170 pounds. He's never been hesitant about shooting the ball and that should provide the Warriors with many points.

Zuccarini ranked 12th in CSL scoring as a junior, averaging 13.8 to gain honorable mention All-Conference honors. He's down about 15 pounds from his football playing weight of 228 and returns to one forward.

Everything else is a battle. John Clark and Mike Aulert, each at least 6-5, are contending at center. Clark could start tonight in the Warriors' home opener with Oak Park. Aulert's been sidelined with a severe ankle sprain.

The forward spot next to Zuccarini lists Paul Dick and Bill Makuch. Dick was used primarily in junior-varsity games last year. Makuch played a strong second half to average 9.9 points.

Dick is an exceptional jumper and might have any early edge since Makuch must recondition his football aches and pains.

Heiden has seldom been employed as West's playmaker. If that pattern holds true, either Norb Ploszaj, Norm Hillner or Jim Andrews will run the offense out front.

More than anything, the Warriors need to develop a team that can cope with quickness. An increasing number of high school coaches have adopted the quick running offense.

They're a smaller team this year at certain positions, especially center where 6-9 Doug Myers was all-conference last year. But the Warriors have the potential to field better total size.

Most of all, they'll need everyone healthy since there's just Fininis for junior depth. And they need Heiden dropping his rainbow shot through the bucket.

Camp Duncan swimming

The Camp Duncan YMCA swim team opened its second season on Saturday with a boy/girl meet at Volo. It was the first time the new Kyroscope was ued in competition. This electric timing device was donated to Camp Duncan by the Parents' Association at the close of the season last year.

Many new faces have joined the team, but the competitive spirit of the group remains the same.

After losing to the girls last year in a similar meet, the boys went into the water with great determination — only to fall victims to the once again victorious girls with a final score of 205—140.

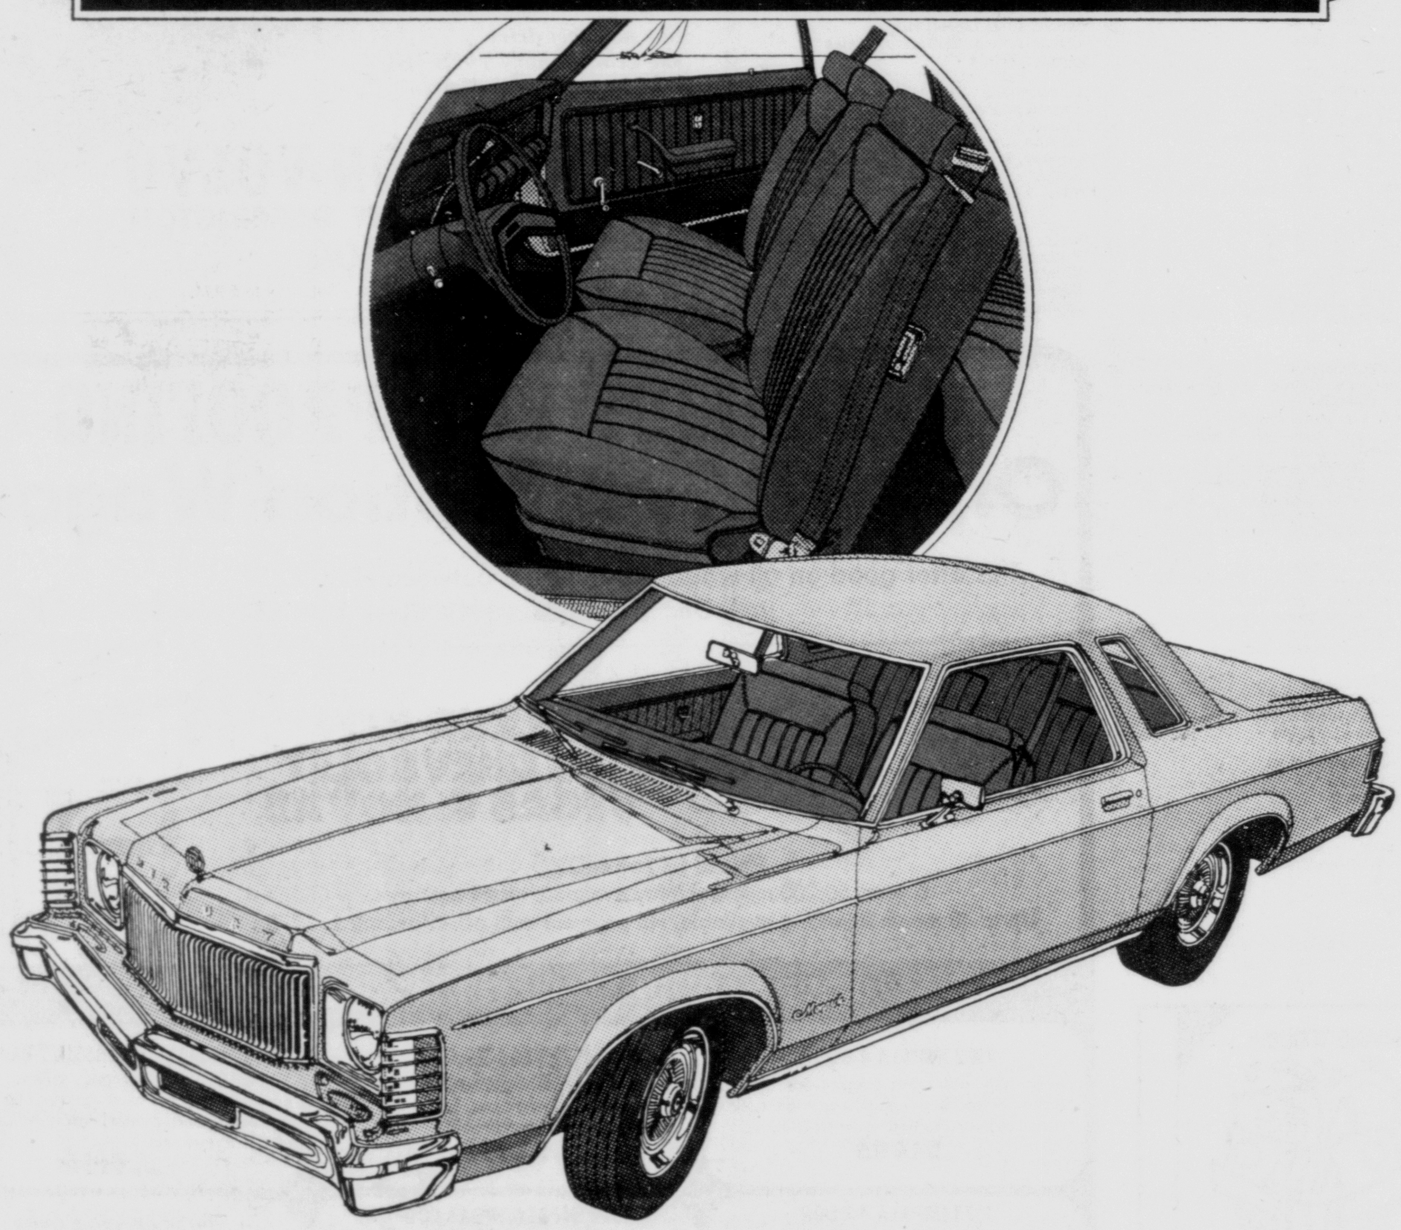
THE SILVER & RED CLASSIC



MERCURY MONARCH

The new precision size luxury car for 1975

This strikingly handsome coupe may remind you of a special version of Lincoln-Mercury's most expensive car, the Continental Mark IV.

Like the silver Mark, its subtle silver exterior gives way to a near-lavish red interior. Like the silver Mark, this coupe has a classic grille, opera windows, and steel-belted radials, all standard. But unlike the silver Mark, the Silver & Red Monarch comes to Chicagoland priced within reach of most new-car buyers. Especially when currently high trade-in allowances are considered. Today, it's often possible to trade on a new '75 Mercury and pay less than others would have last summer on a comparably equipped '74 using a similarly aged trade-in.

The Silver & Red Mercury Monarch is classic, yet very much a car for these times. Precisely sized to seat five adults comfortably and give excellent gas mileage . . . precisely priced for today's astute buyer.

Now about $3499

This option group can cost only about $390 extra:
■ Automatic Transmission ■ Power Steering
■ White Sidewalls ■ 250 CID "Six" Engine

All prices are averages of prices determined by independent shopping survey of 35% of all Chicago area dealers November 11 and 12. Some prices were higher, some lower. Taxes, license, and title extra . . . see your Mercury dealer for his price and terms.

CHRIS MIELKE, (44) a sophomore at Harper from Maine West, looks up the floor while fronting Wright's Jesus Alvarez (32). The Rams handed the Hawks their first loss of the season Tuesday, 79-60, and left them to try and pick up the pieces at Elgin Community College tonight at 7:30.

Harper can expect pressure from Elgin

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Elgin head coach Dick Durrant thinks he may have found the Achilles heel of Harper's 0-1 Hawks. Durrant was on hand Tuesday night at St. Viator when the Hawks ran afoul of the Wright Rams and dropped a 79-60 meeting that was close through the first half.

Durrant wasn't impressed with Harper's guards but then again he liked what he saw.

"I'm not sure just what kind of guards they've got," Durrant said. Then he made a remark that shouldn't sit well with Harper coach Roger Bechtold.

"Wright didn't really pressure them as much as usual. They don't ordinarily play that man to man and when they are in their trap zone they are much tougher.

"Harper didn't seem able to play their game against the pressure and I think that will help us."

If all this sounds like Elgin is getting ready to put some pressure of their own on Harper then that is okay with Durrant because that is exactly what he intends to do.

"We plan to find out right away just what their guards can do," Durrant said. "Wright didn't really force them to go to their weak hand dribbling and we plan to do more of that. Mike Millner looked capable of using both hands but Mike Miller always seemed to want to go to his strong hand whenever he could.

"Doug Doppke looked vulnerable, too. He dribbles awfully high and I was surprised Wright wasn't able to steal the ball off him. He also looked erratic passing under pressure."

Harper will face a situation they may become used to before the season is out. Elgin will be the bigger team. Wright was smaller but jumped better, Durrant thinks Elgin has jumpers equal to the Hawks but none as springy as Tim Holland.

"Holland is just an incredible leaper," Durrant said. "We don't have anybody who can stay up with him but we've been working a lot on position and such and I think we'll be able to stay on the glass with them."

Rich Bingaman, at 6-2 and an honorable mention all-conference player last year, will share the forward spots with 6-5 Jeff Howard. Another 6-5 player, Dan Benac, will open in the middle. Durrant will settle on the two guards among three players each at six foot or better. They are Dennis Butzow, Bill Stoll and Larry Strohmeier.

"We're expecting a lot out of Howard," Durrant said. "He's a fine offensive player. I'm also expecting a lot out of Butzow. He should develop into our floor leader and quarterback.

"Our outside shooting will be tested by Harper's zone if they play it as tough as they did against Wright. It was hurting Wright until they started finding the open man.

"I think Harper has a lot of talent. They'll win their share of games this year when they get the kinks worked out. Overall, I think we're pretty evenly matched teams. We both have pretty good quickness and jumping although we may be a little bigger.

"It should be a close game, perhaps being decided by something unforeseen."

Perhaps that would be how well Harper handles Elgin's pressure tonight.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

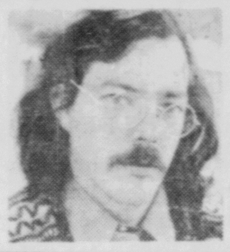
Moral norm changes affect U.S. ethic

World of religion

by David E. Anderson



Seven years ago, sociologist Robert N. Bellah sent shock waves through the religious and academic circles with the publication in Daedalus magazine of his article "Civil Religion in America."

It wasn't so much that Bellah had come up with a startling new insight as that his phrase — "civil religion," — and his somewhat approving assessment of the phenomenon excited the response of both the academic and theological communities.

Since the publication of Bellah's original essay, countless books, magazine articles, scholarly and lay symposia have all struggled with the question of the relationship between nation and religion noted by Bellah.

One of the best of these, including Bellah's original essay and a recently written reassessment of the debate, including an answer to his critics, has just been published under the title "American Civil Religion," edited by Russell E. Richey and Donald G. Jones (Harper).

IN HIS ORIGINAL essay, Bellah argued that, "There actually exists alongside of and rather clearly differentiated from the churches an elaborate and well-institutionalized civil religion in America."

What Bellah calls "civil religion," critics have also labeled "the religion of the Republic," and the generalized "religion of the American way of life."

Bellah saw the civil religion as it emerged in America having several parallels or analogies with Biblical religion — the use of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution as sacred documents, the founding of the nation as the exodus event, and, in Presidents like Lincoln and Kennedy, a tradition of saintly martyrs.

Critics who dislike the idea of a civil religion usually make two kinds of arguments against it — that it bowdlerizes Biblical religion and that it results in national self-worship, the transcendence of the nation-state over all else.

In his reassessment of the civil religion concept, Bellah continues to argue for its usefulness for the nation.

AT THE SAME TIME, however, he acknowledges that the late 1960s and early 1970s had a major impact on the national self-understanding and the civil religion.

"A profound undermining of authority, of respect for our inherited values and beliefs, has taken place that will not be easily reversed, even though what has been offered instead is often shoddy and distasteful," Bellah noted.

He suggests that the twin crises of Watergate and Vietnam that have so shaken the nation mean there is a need to reexamine American traditions and broaden our understanding of the American ethic.

AS JUST ONE example, he cites the way in which American individualism has come to be a major component of the American civil religion. But in looking at history, he sees in John Winthrop's famous sermon — preached to the colonists before they left the ship that had brought them to Massachusetts Bay in 1630 — "in the very beginning and core of the Protestant tradition in this country so vivid an expression of a communal ethic."

Bellah's reassessment is not the last word in the debate over civil religion. The arguments over the relations and various influences of religion, morality and politics on each other and on the national life will go on.

"At its best," Bellah says, "civil religion would be realized in situations where politics operates within a set of moral norms, and both politics and morality are open to transcendent judgment."

Religion today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

Is church press free?

BOSTON—"Deep differences of opinion on what news is fit to print" is the only official explanation offered as to why the editor of S.J. News was fired.

S.J. (Society of Jesus) News is the monthly newspaper of the Jesuit Province of New England, which has in recent months been perhaps the most newsworthy of all the Jesuit provinces in the world.

The fired editor, the Rev. James G. Hietter, has, quite conscientiously, tried to live up to the S.J. News title — by reporting the actual news, whether good or bad.

This apparently won him the enmity — although, to be sure the interest — of both conservatives and liberals.

THE LIBERALS were incensed when Father Hietter raised the perfectly legitimate question as to whether U.S. Rep. the Rev. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., still has the required ecclesiastical permission to serve in Congress.

Drinan does have permission, from New England's Jesuit Provincial (superior) the Rev. Richard Cleary.

But editor Hietter quotes Boston's Archbishop Humberto Cardinal Madieros as saying, "I have made it very clear that I don't approve of priests in political office."

And while Maderios' famed predecessor, the late Richard Cardinal Cushing, had given Father Drinan his enthusiastic consent to run, editor Hietter cited Canon 139, in which the bishop's permission is required for a priest to run for political office.

THE ISSUE IS further clouded by Drinan's congressional district including parts of both the Boston Archdiocese as well as the Diocese of Worcester — whose bishop, Bernard Flannagan, has no objection to Drinan in Congress.

Priest-editor Hietter infuriated the conservatives as well as the liberals by breaking the story that Provincial Cleary ordered the Rev. John McLaughlin to leave his White House post. Shortly after reporting this news in the S.J. News, Father Hietter was fired by Provincial Cleary.

"Father Cleary has the authority to fire me," acknowledged Hietter during a telephone interview with this reporter, "although it may be that he should explain precisely what are these deep differences regarding what news is fit to print. Since both Drinan and McLaughlin originally were given permission to serve in Washington, I felt the people had a right to know all about these newsworthy priests."

Then the fired editor concluded: "You can't have a free press, or an interesting press, that is controlled."

ONE REASON WHY so many local, regional, or national religion house organs are either so deadly dull or basically untrustworthy (at least when they deal with the denominational power structure) is in failing to realize or implement the truth of this statement.

One significant document which seems to bear out Father Hietter's conclusion was published in 1971, a 20,000-word pastoral instruction entitled "The Media, Public Opinion and Human Progress." Among the conclusions of this Vatican document, approved by Pope Paul VI, was: "The safety of newsmen should be assured because of the service they render to man's right to know what is happening."

But priest-editor Hietter, who tried so hard to implement "man's right to know what is happening," remains at this writing fired, with no other job offered him by the Society of Jesus.

Interestingly, the Jesuit magazine America reported from the recent Synod in Rome the following statement by Father Pedro Arrupe, general of the Society of Jesus:

"The church can offer positive help to those involved in the mass media in several ways: by sincerity and open-mindedness in giving exact and complete information, by promptness in furnishing information; by accepting criticism with humility and loyalty; by understanding the conditions under which newsmen must work, exposed as they are to the tyranny of deadlines; of popular moods and of the need to break stories."

Father Heitter no doubt will be happy to hear this.

IASB to consider changing collective-bargaining position

The Illinois Assn. of School Boards will consider changing its position opposing a law on collective bargaining for teachers at its annual convention this weekend in Chicago.

The IASB delegate assembly Saturday will consider adopting a position which will allot the association's lobbyists to work for collective bargaining legislation favorable to school boards.

The IASB is a statewide organization of school boards that in the past has been unalterably opposed to any law giving teachers the right to collective bargain with school boards. The IASB will be meeting at the Palmer House in Chicago.

The resolution will be presented to the delegate assembly by six Cook County school districts, including districts from Morton Grove, Tinley Park and Harvey.

The resolution reaffirms the IASB position that "efforts exerted by public employe organizations and their members seeking enactment of such (collective bargaining) laws are detrimental to public education," but recognizes that collective bargaining legislation may soon be enacted.

Other resolutions to be considered this weekend by the IASB include proposals from several local school districts. A resolution by Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 asks that double celebrations of certain holidays, such as Memorial Day, be eliminated.

Marlo Thomas

Marlo, probably best known for her role in "That Girl," was born on Nov. 21, 1938. She is the daughter of comedian Danny Thomas and his wife Rosemary. Marlo grew up in Los Angeles and after graduating from the University of Southern California she went to New York to study acting with Sanford Meisner. She made her TV debut in "77 Sunset Strip" and she began working in the theatre as well as in television. She starred in "Under the Yum Yum Tree" at La Jolla, "Gigi" at Laguna Beach, in Santa Barbara she starred in "Two for the See-Saw," and she won critical appraise for her role in the long-run production of "Sunday in New York."

Marlo has also guest-starred on numerous TV series such as "The Alfred Hitchcock Show," "The Virginian," "Ben Casey," "Mr. Novak," "Arrest and Trial" and "Bonanza." Before ABC's "That Girl" series, she performed in "Barefoot in the Park," for which she won fantastic reviews.

Marlo, who resides in Beverly Hills, is a board member of the Inner-City Cultural Center (an interracial non-profit theatre project headed by Gregory Peck). In addition, she is also on the board of "Neighbors of Watts," a committee which is dedicated to the building of child care centers in that neighborhood. Could you please give me some information about Kurt Russell? Also an address to write to him and a picture.

T.Y.
Rolling Meadows

Kurt Russell

Kurt, who plays Bo in ABC's "The New Land," was as busy playing baseball as he was acting a few years ago. He played minor league ball since 1971 with the Bend, Ore., Rainbows, the Walla Walla, Wash., Islanders and the El Paso, Texas, Sun Kings. Due to a shoulder injury in 1973, however, Kurt had to end his sports career.

Luckily, Kurt was able to fall back on his acting ability which he began at the age of ten. He made his TV debut in the series "Our Man Higgins." He later co-starred in ABC's "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" and he has appeared in other series such as "The Fugitive," "The Eleventh Hour," "The Man from U.N.C.L.E.," "Gunsmoke," "Love Story" and "Hec Ramsey."

Kurt's first movie was "It Happened at the World's Fair." Walt Disney spotted him and immediately recognized his talent. Kurt signed his first Disney film contract for "Follow Me, Boys" and he has made nine of them since that time. His most recent one is called "The Strongest Man in the World."

Kurt lives in a mountain cabin he named "The Walled Off A-Story-A," located about 100 miles from Hollywood. Kurt likes to write and he has even recorded an album called "Kurt Russell" on Capitol Records. You can write to him in care of ABC Press Relations, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y., 10019.

If you need a fix-it loan for a home improvement job, or even new storm windows, we're the people to turn to. Or if maybe you need a consolidation loan for your projects and a few of the fine things in life, we're the right people for that, too.
